B52 Bombers Hit Communist Emplacements

Area North of DMZ Treated to Heavy Saturation Raid

SAIGON (AP) — Waves of high-altitude B52 bombers made one of their rare invasions of North Vietnam today for a saturation raid on gun emplacements and dug-in bunkers of the North Vietnamese 341st Division just above the 17th Parallel frontier.

The U.S. Command said the big bombers came in waves two hours apart and saturated an area almost two miles long and two miles wide with a lethal rain of bombs.

The number of bombers was not disclosed but the size of the target area indicated a far greater than average strike. The big bombers probably unloaded hundreds of thousands of pounds of bombs on the North Vietnamese emplacements.

The target area was just north of the demilitarized zone dividing Vietnam and about 14 miles inland—the area where the 341st Division is posted and from which heavy Communist guns have for weeks fired deadly barrages on U.S. Marines dug in about seven miles to the south.

Although ground action was scattered and inconclusive, there were these other developments in the war:

1. The U.S. Command announced that the Forrestal, America's third-largest aircraft carrier, has joined the 7th Fleet operating against North Vietnam from the Tonkin Gulf. The Australian destroyer Hobart also rejoined the fleet bombarding North Vietnam.

2. Two American jets were downed over North Vietnam Tuesday. They brought announced U.S. combat plane losses over North Vietnam to 617. They were a Navy A4 Skyhawk jet and a two-place Air Force F4C Phantom. The three others are missing in action.

3. South Vietnamese headquarters said two more Communist mines ripped up the road and blew up a small concrete bridge on Highway 4, the main road from Saigon into the Mekong Delta and long regarded as one of the nation's safest roads. Guerrillas have set more than nine mines in the road in the past week and more have been discovered unexploded.

4. Viet Cong guerrillas masquerading as government troops struck a lethal blow close to Saigon for the second time in 24 hours. Wearing South Vietnamese army uniforms, the guerrillas seized a Red Cross ambulance and surprised a militia post and police station six miles northwest of the capital, killed 11 policemen and militiamen, and wounded seven others.

$10,000 in Damages Listed In Glass-Breaking Rampage

An automobile glass-breaking rampage which has plagued Circleville's new and used car dealers for the past two days has caused an estimated $10,000 damage.

At the last count completed by Circleville police, the windows in 151 automobiles have been apparently damaged with either a BB gun or a pellet rifle.

Patrolman Wesley Barton today said that if all the damaged windows were replaced, the area automobile dealers will shell out nearly $10,000.

However, Barton noted that in many instances, only small chips were broken from windows and the glasses would

Cycle Accident Fatal to Youth

An 18-year-old Amanda youth was killed in a motorcycle-truck crash on the Ringgold - Southern Road east of Circleville Tuesday afternoon.

Dannie Lee Wagner became the 14th victim in Pickaway County to die as a result of injuries received in a traffic accident.

The accident occurred 4:20 p. m. Tuesday in front of the Rueben Jones farm in Washington Twp. Wagner was dead on arrival at Berger Hospital, authorities said.

According to the report of investigating officers, Wagner was headed south on the road and Harold R. Wolford, driver of the truck which Wagner struck, was headed north. Wolford was in the process of turning into the Jones driveway when the fatal accident occurred.

Wolford said.

Wagner was thrown approximately 21 feet from the point of impact, Deputy Warren Straley stated.

Straley said that from the point of impact to the point where the motorcycle would have become visible at the crest of a slight hill the distance measured a mere 205 feet.

Straley talked to neighbors in the area who told him they saw Wagner heading south on the road "at a high rate of speed" immediately before the crash.

There were no skid marks left by the cycle, according to the report.

Wagner was born Sept. 4, 1948 in Fairfield County, the son of Solomon and Ada Fetherolf Wagner.

He was a 1966 graduate of Amanda - Clearcreek High School and a member of the Fairview EUB Church.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. Ada Wagner, Route 2, Amanda; one brother, Emil, Dayton; five half - brothers, Jerry Doner, Stoutsville; David Doner, Lancaster; Stanley Wagner, St. Mary's O.; Arthur Wagner, Columbus; and Paul Wagner, Buckeye Lake, O.

One sister, Mrs. Freda Wagner, Route 2, A m a n d a; four half - sisters, Mrs. Bessie Davis, Columbus; Mrs. Cathryn Hawks, Turlington; Mrs. Nellie Schrader, and Mrs. Alice Thomas, both of Lancaster; several nieces and nephews.

Services will be 2 p. m. Saturday in the Fairview EUB Church. Burial will be in Mt. Olive Cemetery, South Perry.

Friends may call at the Taylor Funeral Home, Amanda, beginning 7 p. m. Thursday and at the church beginning 12 noon Saturday.

Brian McNamara of Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, said the government should force the dismantling of a joint operating agreement between the Columbus, Ohio, Dispatch and the Columbus Citizen-Journal.

McNamara, formerly women's page editor of the Citizen-Journal, said joint commercial operations there have created an unhealthy competitive situation.

"The Citizen-Journal can grow only as much as the Dispatch wants it to grow," he said. "In 1,001 ways, the Dispatch can control the amount of advertising and circulation the Citizen-Journal gets."

"What I would like to see is neither the legitimizing of this situation nor the disappearance of the Citizen-Journal," McNamara said. "I would like to see the Citizen - Journal ordered to hire its own circulation and advertising staffs."

De Gaulle Cuts Canada Visit Short

Canadians Angry Over Unsettling Quebec Speeches

OTTAWA (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle plans to return to France from Montreal, canceling the Ottawa portion of his scheduled visit, a government source said today.

This report came as the government prepared to welcome the general to this national capital in the face of widespread protests over his views. Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson rebuked him in a statement Tuesday night.

Montreal police meanwhile were investigating a bullet hole found in the wall of a City Hall office.

They said the bullet may have been fired about the time that De Gaulle was speaking outside the City Hall Monday night.

"There is absolutely nothing to indicate so far that the shot was fired during the general's speech," the police said.

De Gaulle had been scheduled to arrive in Ottawa late today for a round of banquets and receptions concluding his scheduled five-day tour that was to end Thursday night.

The 76-year-old French leader created a furor by shouting the separatist rallying cry, "Long live free Quebec!" to a cheering French-Canadian crowd at the Montreal City Hall Monday.

A source in the office of Foreign Secretary Paul Martin said the government had received no official reason for the president's change of plans. He added an "operational decision" had been made and De Gaulle's departure from Montreal was being arranged.

Adding new fuel to the dispute, De Gaulle declared at a dinner Tuesday night in Montreal he "will rejoice profoundly" if his visit has been "useful" to the French speaking citizens of Quebec Province, where a militant minority demands secession of the province from the English speaking rest of Canada.

A few hours earlier Pearson accused De Gaulle of encouraging "the small minority of our population whose aim is to destroy Canada." After an emergency meeting with his Cabinet, the prime minister said these statements by the French president "are unacceptable to the Canadian people and its government."

Pearson's statement failed to satisfy some aroused Canadians. The opposition leader, Conservative John Diefenbaker, called it "a diplomatic concoction of generalities which fail entirely to meet the situation."

He had urged a stern reprimand and said De Gaulle should be told to make no more public speeches in Canada.

Escaped Chlorine From Tank Car Overpowers 20

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — A cloud of deadly green chlorine gas billowed up from a railroad tank car today and sent at least 20 people choking and rasping to a hospital.

Two workers put on gas masks and shut off the leak within 10 minutes. Apparently the gas diffused in the breeze, so that no serious damage was done.

"You can smell it all over the North Side," said the administrator at St. John's Hospital, about a mile from the leak, a railroad siding at the sewage disposal plant on the Ohio River.

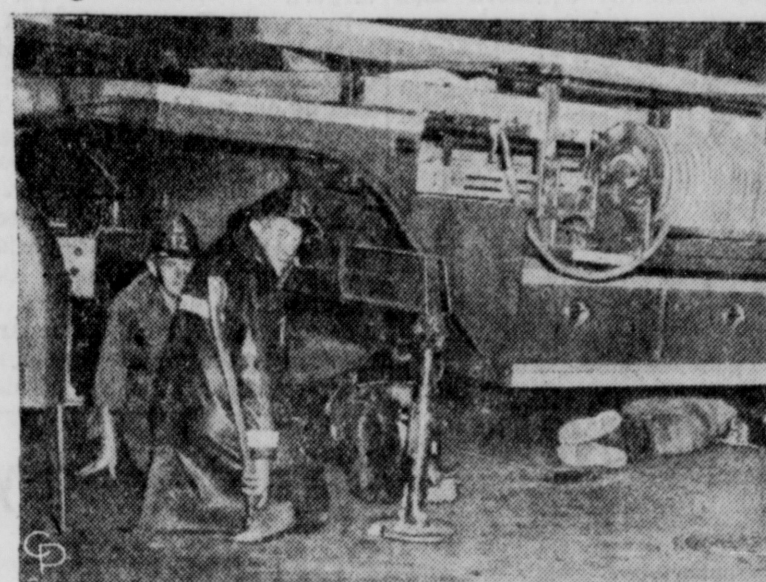

He said 20 persons were being treated.

"I don't think any of them are in bad shape," he said. "Oxygen seems to be bringing them around."

Police rushed emergency units into the area, only a mile from the heart of downtown, but did not seal off the area.

Dr. King Cancels Visit to Toledo Because of Riot

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The cancellation of Dr. Martin Luther King's visit to this racially disturbed city was welcomed by city officials Wednesday as they assessed the ravages of two days of violence produced by roving bands of young Negroes.

King, head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, was scheduled to speak before the organization's local chapter Saturday.

Word of the cancellation came from the Rev. A.L. Roach, chairman of the local SCLC chapter.

"Existing conditions here would not make it desirable for Dr. King to appear," said Roach.

Mayor John Potter and several other city officials told leaders of the Negro community they opposed King's visit because of the present rioting.

The National Guard was called out Tuesday by Gov. James A. Rhodes at the request of Toledo Mayor John Potter. The mayor said he feared a

Leaders Dispute Blame for Riots

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders are haggling over the political blame for big - city rioting as Congress moved ponderously to set up the machinery to investigate violence in the streets.

While committees discussed hearings and action on anti-riot and inquiry measures, Democrats and Republicans accused each other of trying to reap political advantage out of the bloody destruction in Detroit and other urban areas.

Controversy boiled up Tuesday over whether President Johnson acted quickly enough in sending federal troops into Detroit's stricken areas and whether Republicans were playing politics in accusing Johnson of failing to deal adequately with racial disorders.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., told the Senate there had been an "unfortunate delay" between the time federal troops arrived in Michigan and when they were ordered into the streets. He said in that period

33 Now Dead As Rioting Enters 4th Day

DETROIT (AP) — National Guardsmen and police raked buildings and rubble - strewn streets with machinegun and small-arms fire today as they battled elusive snipers on Detroit's war-torn West Side.

Dwindling rifle fire replaced the clatter of automatic weapons as the city's third night of racial terror ended.

Ten persons were killed by gunfire, some apparently by accident, as the toll of dead in two days and three nights of strife rose to 33.

Two city policemen and possibly five Guardsmen were wounded in pitched battles frequently sparked by the single report of a small weapon or the whine of a bullet.

A National Guard tank rumbled over cars drawn across a street in one area and poured bursts of .50-caliber machinegun bullets into the darkness for more than half an hour after scattered shots struck its side.

Several blocks away a single shot from a small-caliber rifle halted another tank and within minutes 20 police cars, each carrying four men, pulled up at the scene.

Fusillades from a light machinegun, rifles and shotguns drew occasional shots, but again the sniper or snipers got away.

Two Negroes were gunned down in their car by Guardsmen at a roadblock near a fire department command post. A fire captain told Guardsmen to open up when one of them leaned from a window with a pistol. With the new deaths, Detroit's riots were two short of being the costliest in terms of human life in recent U.S. history.

Thirty-four died at Watts in 1965.

It already was the costliest in all other respects.

Injuries climbed to more than 1,000 with 280 hospitalized. City officials said property damage and business losses in the two days and three nights of Negro rebellion could reach $1 billion.

New fires set by arsonists and looters boosted the total to 1,145. Arrests mounted to 2,623 with bail as high as $200,000 set for suspected snipers.

As bullets whined in the streets, the city faced another problem, potentially as costly as the near anarchy of the present — hundreds, possibly thousands, burned from homes or jobs had become refugees.

Food lines formed in one area.

"No one waited for the other guy to say 'Well, you do it,' they knew what precautions had to be taken and they didn't waste any time about it."

Mrs. Campbell recalls that after taking her husband to the airport Sunday evening, she saw innumerable carloads of Negroes going into the downtown area of the city . . .

"They were all coming from the west of the city on Interstate Highway 94", she recalled.

Chief Robert Temple Wednesday telephoned Detroit police asking the severity of the situation at that time . . .

They told him that on the highway leading to the city there had been sniper fire reported many times. Fires also had been started on the freeway . . .

"It is the most sickening thing that anyone could ever imagine and I hope and pray to God that something like this never hits Circleville," Mrs. Campbell said.

Worst Summer For Cincy Arson

CINCINNATI (AP)—This has been Cincinnati's worst summer for arson, Fire Chief Bert Lugannani says.

He said Tuesday that the city's average in recent years has been 10 to 12 cases of arson a year with damages of about $50,000.

Between June 12 and Tuesday, there were 161 cases of arson with total damage of $2,160,965, Lugannani said.

Almost all cases of arson were connected with racial disturbances that first broke out June 12.

DETROIT (AP) — The cost of rioting in the three-county Detroit metropolitan area eventually could reach $1 billion predicts Dwight Havens, president of the Greater Detroit Board of Commerce.

"We're using a ballpark figure on this," he said in an interview.

"It's really such a guess—make at this point I'm almost embarrassed to cite it," he said. "but we can see where the total dollar estimate might reach a billion dollars."

Joint News Operation Is Debated

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Raleigh, N. C., publisher said today Congressional clearance for joint operation or merger of failing newspapers would preserve competition by saving papers with "distinct editorial personalities."

But a former newspaperman said the process has not worked that way in Columbus, Ohio.

"They were all coming from the west of the city on Interstate Highway 94," she recalled.

Chief Robert Temple Wednesday telephoned Detroit police asking the severity of the situation at that time . . .

They told him that on the highway leading to the city there had been sniper fire reported many times. Fires also had been started on the freeway . . .

"It is the most sickening thing that anyone could ever imagine and I hope and pray to God that something like this never hits Circleville," Mrs. Campbell said.

Worst Summer For Cincy Arson

CINCINNATI (AP)—This has been Cincinnati's worst summer for arson, Fire Chief Bert Lugannani says.

He said Tuesday that the city's average in recent years has been 10 to 12 cases of arson a year with damages of about $50,000.

Between June 12 and Tuesday, there were 161 cases of arson with total damage of $2,160,065, Lugannani said.

Almost all cases of arson were connected with racial disturbances that first broke out June 12.

Carmichael Says 'War To Death'

HAVANA (AP) — Stokely Carmichael says Negroes in American cities are going to wage a guerrilla "fight to the death," the Cuban news agency reported Tuesday as the U. S. Black Power leader arrived in Havana for a revolutionary conference.

The Prensa Latina agency quoted the fiery 26-year-old Negro as saying: "In Newark we applied war tactics of the guerrillas. We are preparing groups of urban guerrillas for our defense in the cities. The price of these rebellions is a high price that one must pay. This fight is not going to be a simple street meeting. It is going to be a fight to the death."

The Black Power leader came to Havana for the meeting of the Latin American Organization of Solidarity opening July 31. U. S. racial problems are on the meeting's agenda.

Carmichael flew from London to Prague Monday and then to Havana. Non-Communist newsmen were not allowed to approach him at the Havana airport.

In the Prensa Latina interview, which the agency said Carmichael gave in London, he said he decided to come to Cuba because of an April message attributed to the vanished Cuban guerrilla leader Ernesto Guevara. The message urged Latin American revolutionaries to stir up more Vietnam-like situations.

Carmichael said Guevara inspired American Negroes and that Prime Minister Fidel Castro's visit to Harlem in 1960 was momentous "in the history of the fight of North American Negroes."

In the United States, the Alabama state Senate in a solution asked that Carmichael be denied re-entry to the United States and called him "a blasphemous and profane Communist revolutionary."

The report of a bullet hole at City Hall aroused a flurry, but police tended to discount it.

They said the shot landed 200 feet from the spot where De Gaulle delivered his speech Monday, and could have been fired hours before, or hours after the speech.

Tuesday night a man with a shotgun was reported lurking in the Mount Royal district, where De Gaulle has been living — in a rented home — during his Montreal visit. A search turned up no trace of the man.

Police said they had taken precautions.

When De Gaulle returned to the home from Expo 67, police cars on both sides of the street turned on headlights and a searchlight flooded the district.

"The operation had two objectives," a detective said. "One was to light up the entrance like a Christmas tree. The second was to blind the sniper if there was a sniper."

Burial will be in Floral Hills Cemetery.

Senate OKs Armory Sale

The Ohio Senate Tuesday passed companion bills authorizing the sale of National Guard Armories in Circleville and Lancaster.

If the buildings aren't sold by a deadline of July 31, the bill authorizes the Department of Public Works to offer the two parcels for public sale.

The bill also provides that the Circleville armory must sell for not less than $15,000 under the appraised value. The real estate at the Circleville location has been appraised at $85,000.

Another provision of the bill authorizes a re-appraisal of the armories after the July 31 deadline.

recurrence of Monday night's looting and fire-bombing, and it came.

Dorr Street, in a predominantly Negro West Side area, again was the main target area. Police said groups of young Negroes numbering in the hundreds roamed the area early in the evening.

"God, I couldn't believe it. It rained bricks and bottles," one policeman said.

Several persons were injured, but, as of Monday night, none of the injuries was serious. The city was virtually quiet after midnight Tuesday.

Police Lt. Walter Scoble, asked for causes of the trouble, said "There's no reason for this . . . no police incident, nothing. It just started. Most of the Negro population have been good. They stayed in their homes. It's the Negro criminals and hoodlums we have to contend with."

Many store windows in the troubled areas were boarded up. A 9 p. m. curfew was set for all persons 21 or younger, a n an International League baseball game between Toledo and Toronto was postponed because of the disturbances.

No serious fires were reported. One policeman said, "Luckily, their Molotov cocktails don't seem to be working too well."

The guardsmen, based in an armory here, were deployed to three outposts just outside the trouble area and put on alert. Ohio Adjutant Gen. Erwin C. Hostetler said the troops had orders "to shoot to kill, if necessary" if sent in to help police.

Highway patrolmen stopped cars coming south from Michigan at the Ohio border Tuesday as another precaution.

Rhodes said when ordering out the guard: "Mayor Potter stressed the danger of a spread of disorder from the Detroit area."

Ohio Race Riot Pattern Has Remained the Same

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The face of Ohio's 1967 racial riots has remained the same in the three cities where it has appeared — youthful, defiant, enormously destructive and swift-moving.

In Cincinnati and Dayton in June. In Toledo now.

The tactics are not new. They're the same maneuvers applied by youthful thugs of all races—hit-and-run. Keep one step ahead of the law.

The face is confused about its anger. It's reasoning for violence has never been clearly defined.

"It could be a fad," commented Toledo Deputy Police Chief William G. Weiner Tuesday night. "More or less the thing to do."

This "fad" has cost property owners more than $3.25 million. In Cincinnati, Negro youth gangs almost gleefully swathed through the Avondale district smashing windows, tossing fire bombs. They left an estimated $3 million pile of rubble in their wake.

A few days later, the same face of violence rocked Dayton. Another $250,000 was laid waste.

Mart Steadies Irregularity

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market early this afternoon seemed to be slowly pulling out of an irregular phase which gripped it all day Tuesday and most of this morning.

Gains outnumbered losses by nearly 3 to 2. As in Tuesday's session, the averages trailed or where contradictory, but unlike Tuesday, the averages edged above their lows early in the afternoon.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.51 at 902.80. It registered slight losses in early trading.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .1 at 338.0 with industrials up .8, rails off .8 and utilities up .2.

Accused Forger Placed on Probation

Mrs. Ollie Hamm, 108 Highland Ave., entered a plea of guilty to two counts of forgery in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court Saturday and was placed on probation.

Mrs. Hamm appeared before Judge William Ammer on a bill of information. A condition of her three-year probation was that she make restitution of four checks she issued.

Stolen Auto Is Recovered

All Pickaway County law enforcement agencies had a hand in recovering a stolen car early Tuesday morning near the Pickaway-Fairfield county line.

A complaint was received at the police station 1:54 a. m. Tuesday concerning a man who had refused to pay for gasoline at Koch's Sohio Station on Route 23.

Authorities were later notified by the State Highway Patrol that the vehicle had been stolen out of Columbus.

Assisting with the recovery were the Circleville Police, members of the Highway Patrol, Hamilton Twp. Police and Columbus Police.

The car was stopped on Route 23 at the junction of Route 665 and three persons were apprehended at that time. They were Larry M. Sullivan, 18, Columbus; Charles Lewis, 59, also of Columbus and a 15-year-old girl.

Sullivan was then put in the Police cruiser where, according to arresting officers, he became unduly belligerent. Officers said that he did considerable damage to the interior of the cruiser.

The two men are now being held by authorities for failure to pay for a purchase and resisting arrest.

Public Library Participates In Head Start

The library is cooperating with the Head Start Program of Pickaway County, beginning Thursday, when the city class will be given a tour of the library.

Next week the bookmobile will be taken to each of the participating schools in the county, for the purpose of showing these children how this unit serves their particular community.

The following schedule will be followed: Monday, Scioto School; Tuesday, Ashville School; Thursday, Williamsport School; and Friday, Pickaway School. At each of these visits, a story hour will be presented, to the children, by Warren Cravotta.

In addition to the above program, the bookmobile will be at the Pickaway County Fair every evening. All visitors to the Fair are encouraged to visit the bookmobile and to ask any questions about the library, that they may have.

Cravotta issued a reminder that the story hour for preschool through grade three children is each Saturday at 10 a.m. in the main library.

Woman Hurt Mowing Grass

An area woman sustaining minor injuries while using a power mower topped the list of persons requiring emergency care Tuesday at Berger Hospital.

Mrs. Myrtle Foster, 33, Amanda, was cutting grass at home when the mower threw a rock against her left leg causing lacerations.

Annette Sue Shepherd, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Shepherd, Route 4, was bitten by the family dog and received lacerations below her right eye and the side of her nose.

Perri Hoskins, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hoskins, 124 Parkway Ave., injured his right ankle when hit with a ball at Ted Lewis Park.

Mack Shaw, 16, Route 4, cut the third finger of his right hand on a soft drink bottle at the local Big Bear store.

Gerald Burris, 10, grandson of Mrs. Elizabeth Mumaw, 175 Hayward Ave., caught his left foot in the wheel of a bicycle cutting his big toe.

Kenneth Weaver, 33, of 119 Mingo St., lacerated fingers of his hand while working on a car at home.

Gary Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wright, Williamsport, cut his hand at home with a knife while working on a 4-H project.

Newspapers across Canada ran angry editorials labeling De Gaulle's remarks an insult, a deliberate affront, interference in Canadian affairs, encouragement of subversion, an attempt to divide the country and abuse of hospitality. Two French papers in Montreal defended the general.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower wrote in Reader's Digest that a "shameful uncropping of lawlessness" in city rioting must be dealt with sternly lest it lead to anarchy and destroy the nation.

"Personal or social problems cannot be solved by violence and defiance of authority," he said.

"I have the utmost sympathy for any person who has never had a decent chance in life," Eisenhower said. "But the fact that society has treated him badly does not give him the right to smash a store window and take what he wants, or to attack our police with animal ferocity."

SBA Award Presented to Local Man

JOHN R. HALL

C. L. Davies, acting regional director of the Columbus Regional Office of the U. S. Small Business Administration, today announced the presentation of the Public Contact Man of the Year Award to John R. Hall of Circleville.

Hall has been with the agency for 3 1/2 years and is serving as acting chief of the procurement and management assistance division.

Davies said, in making the presentation, that Hall received the award for his "outstanding performance in serving the public through publicizing the program for small business available through the SBA."

Hall and his wife, Ann, reside at 1265 N. Court St.

Lakewood Man Is Charged with Child Neglect

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Lakewood man who says his 7-year-old son died in his car has been charged with child neglect.

Charles J. Heffernan, 49, who told police Sunday that his son, James, died in the back seat of his car July 18, was charged Tuesday by the Cuyahoga County prosecutor.

He was arraigned before Common Pleas Judge John T. Patton and bond was set at $1,000. Heffernan was in county jail.

Mrs. Heffernan said Tuesday she would try to have her husband released from jail long enough today for his son's funeral.

Patton said if the man's family asked, Heffernan would be permitted to attend the funeral with a deputy sheriff.

The coroner's office said it still is investigating the boy's death. Heffernan said the boy died after falling in the car and striking his head on a seat-belt anchor.

Services will be 1:30 p. m. Friday in the Taylor Funeral Home, Amanda, with the Rev. George Herd officiating. Burial will be in Amanda Twp. Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 7 p. m. Wednesday.

MR. WILLIAM ADKINS

Survivors include his widow, Virgie Estella Nelson Adkins; four sons, James, U. S. Navy; Donald, Newport, R. I.; William Jr., 316 1/2 Watt St.; and Danny, at home. Also surviving are five daughters: Mrs. Rosie Scott and Mrs. Stella Fausnaugh of Circleville; Mrs. Geneva MacMurry, Encino, Calif.; Mrs. Carol Garrett, Reynoldsburg; and Miss Barbara Adkins of the home; 19 grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Hattie Holbrook, Beaver, Ohio.

Services will be 10:30 a. m. Saturday in the Deffenbaugh Funeral Home where friends may call beginning 7 p. m. Thursday.

Burial will be in Floral Hills Cemetery.

Senate OKs Armory Sale

The Ohio Senate Tuesday passed companion bills authorizing the sale of National Guard Armories in Circleville and Lancaster.

If the buildings aren't sold by a deadline of July 31, the bill authorizes the Department of Public Works to offer the two parcels for public sale.

The bill also provides that the Circleville armory must sell for not less than $15,000 under the appraised value. The real estate at the Circleville location has been appraised at $85,000.

Another provision of the bill authorizes a re-appraisal of the armories after the July 31, deadline.

PARATROOPERS MOVE INTO DETROIT—Under orders from President Johnson to end the bloody rioting by Negroes in Detroit, members of the 101st Airborne Division of Ft. Campbell, Ky., move in to battle snipers.

Dorr Street, in a predominantly Negro West Side area, again was the main target area. Police said groups of young Negroes numbering in the hundreds roamed the area early in the evening.

"God, I couldn't believe it. It rained bricks and bottles," one policeman said.

Several persons were injured, but, as of Monday night, none of the injuries was serious. The city was virtually quiet after midnight Tuesday.

Police Lt. Walter Scoble, asked for causes of the trouble, said "There's no reason for this... no police incident, nothing. It just started. Most of the Negro population have been good. They stayed in their homes. It's the Negro criminals and hoodlums we have to contend with."

Many store windows in the troubled areas were boarded up. A 9 p. m. curfew was set for all persons 21 or younger, a n an International League baseball game between Toledo and Toronto was postponed because of the disturbances.

No serious fires were reported. One policeman said, "Luckily, their Molotov cocktails don't seem to be working too well."

The guardsmen, based in an armory here, were deployed to three outposts just outside the trouble area and put on alert. Ohio Adjutant Gen. Erwin C. Hostetler said the troops had orders "to shoot to kill, if necessary" if sent in to help police.

Highway patrolmen stopped cars coming south from Michigan at the Ohio border Tuesday as another precaution.

Rhodes said when ordering out the guard: "Mayor Potter stressed the danger of a spread of disorder from the Detroit area."

Ohio Race Riot Pattern Has Remained the Same

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The face of Ohio's 1967 racial riots has remained the same in the three cities where it has appeared — youthful, defiant, enormously destructive and swift-moving.

In Cincinnati and Dayton in June. In Toledo now.

The tactics are not new. They're the same maneuvers applied by youthful thugs of all races—hit-and-run. Keep one step ahead of the law.

The face is confused about its anger. It's reasoning for violence has never been clearly defined.

"It could be a fad," commented Toledo Deputy Police Chief William G. Weiner Tuesday night. "More or less the thing to do."

This "fad" has cost property owners more than $3.25 million. In Cincinnati, Negro youth gangs almost gleefully swathed through the Avondale district, smashing windows, tossing fire bombs. They left an estimated $3 million pile of rubble in their wake.

A few days later, the same face of violence rocked Dayton. Another $250,000 was laid waste. The two nights of rioting in

Mart Steadies Irregularity

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market early this afternoon seemed to be slowly pulling out of an irregular phase which gripped it all day Tuesday and most of this morning. Gains outnumbered losses by nearly 3 to 2. As in Tuesday's session, the averages trailed or where contradictory, but unlike Tuesday, the averages edged above their lows early in the afternoon.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.51 at 902.80. It registered slight losses in early trading.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .1 at 338.0 with industrials up .2, rails off .8 and utilities up .8.

Stolen Auto Is Recovered

All Pickaway County law enforcement agencies had a hand in recovering a stolen car early Tuesday morning near the Pickaway-Fairfield county line.

A complaint was received at the police station 1:54 a. m. Tuesday concerning a man who had refused to pay for gasoline at Koch's Sohio Station on Route 23.

Authorities were later notified by the State Highway Patrol that the vehicle had been stolen out of Columbus.

Assisting with the recovery were the Circleville Police, members of the Highway Patrol, Hamilton Twp. Police and Columbus Police.

The car was stopped on Route 23 at the junction of Route 665 and three persons were apprehended at that time. They were Larry M. Sullivan, 18, Columbus; Charles Lewis, 59, also of Columbus and a 15-year-old girl.

Sullivan was then put in the Police cruiser where, according to arresting officers, he became unduly belligerent. Officers said that he did considerable damage to the interior of the cruiser.

The two men are now being held by authorities for failure to pay for a purchase and resisting arrest.

Wise Counsel

The Duke of Edinburgh has been prodding British commerce and industry to abandon stuffy traditions and adopt modern techniques including more aggressive marketing.

Now, in the same spirit, Princess Margaret has spoken favorably of advertising, chiding those critics who prefer trade to be conducted with "reticent gentility."

Prince Philip irritated those who not only resist change but think the royal family should confine itself to opening Parliament and dedicating hospitals. Predictably, Princess Margaret's endorsement of sales promotion brought down the wrath of Labor members of Parliament.

They said her comments were "highly offensive to many loyal British subjects who deplore the waste, dishonesty and lack of taste in the advertising industry."

Advertising his no monopoly on waste, dishonesty and lack of taste. They can be found among politicians, too. Moreover, when in trouble—as Britain's economy is—it's wise to listen to everyone with promising ideas and constructive criticism.

Need Exercise? Count Your Blessings

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The best exercise a man can take is to count his blessings.

Unlike counting calories, it doesn't reduce one's weight. But it's hard to think of a better way to cure the blues.

Being the contrary creature that he is, man is now and then overwhelmed by a nameless melancholy for which he finds it hard to find a reason. He's just in the dumps, and that is it.

As the old saying goes, "Some people can find something to cry about even when they have both arms full of bread."

At such times it can help to shake off the doldrums and revive the spirit simply to sit down and list the things that do put a zing in living.

For example: The courtships of pigeons, which are even more pompous than the courtships of people.

The easygoing singing of Andy Williams.

We May Be Slow, But We Get There

THORNDIKE, Maine (AP) — Death came faster than a post card mailed by a Boy Scout to his scoutmaster.

It took more than 52 years for the card to go from Boston, Mass., to Thorndike, Maine.

Both sender and intended receiver died years before the card arrived 11 days ago.

Boy Scout Edgar Farwell mailed the card March 2, 1915, to Scoutmaster Lewis E. Hogan saying what a "nice time" he was having in Boston.

Hogan's sister, Mrs. Oscar Tweedie, received the card.

She said it was in perfect condition and the Boston postmark date clearly legible. The card also bore a Portland, Maine, postmark July 12, 1967.

Postal officials at Portland had no explanation for the long delay.

Charged with Drunken Horseback Driving

EUREKA, Calif. (AP) — Two rodeo enthusiasts were freed after being charged with being drunk on horseback on a public highway.

Jack Leroy Erwin, 69, of Hydesville, Calif., pleaded guilty Monday and was fined $56. Gilbert Dias, 44, of Petrolia, Calif., posted $29 bail.

The California Highway Patrol said the two had attended a rodeo in Fortuna Sunday night and had started back for Hydesville, 9 miles away, on Erwin's horse and mule.

Views on TV - Radio

By DOUG MCCLURE
For Cynthia Lowry

Editor's Note: Doug McClure, made his first big impression on the television audience when he played the boyish, sophisticated member of a detective team for a couple of years in "Checkmate."

For the past few seasons, his special youthful Robert Montgomery-type of charm has been spread around Shiloh Ranch where he plays the cowboy sidekick of the star in NBC's "The Virginian."

Asked about being apparently stalled in featured secondary roles at a critical time in his career, McClure entered his defense.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A couple of questions caused me to stop and take inventory. While I'm not jumping with joy over what I have noted, the record does indicate progress to me.

If I say I'm not content, it indicates to a degree that I don't think much of my present role of Trampas in "The Virginian." This could not be farther from the truth since I am very happy in the role and feel that I have an opportunity to continue to improve as an actor.

And, of course, if I say that I am content to go along the route I'm on, one might set the impression that I lack ambition. This also is untrue.

It seems to me that I am growing as an actor and that I am consistently going upward and I don't see the top of the ladder anywhere in sight right now.

Admitted that much of his business is a matter of images, it also has dignity, honor and integrity. And it requires years of hard work.

I note that my career route has been from commercials to guest-star or guest roles, to television series star billings. In addition, I have moved into motion pictures.

First I was the easy-going all-American type. Then I became the young sophisticated type in "Checkmate." Then the rugged cowboy type. Now I think I have achieved another level, Doug McClure, the actor type.

I always wanted to keep working, and that certainly has been the case. I hoped to go from television to motion pictures, and that has happened. I wanted to go into motion pictures so I could expand my acting and do a variety of roles. This also is happening.

In one with James Stewart I played a young Civil War soldier. In another I was the hero's young brother who got killed. In another I was a World War II GI who escaped from the Japanese. I've done comedy in two films that will be released this year.

I keep looking for mature roles, and I am sure they will come along. As you mature as an actor, I think you also mature as a human being. Things that seemed important 10 years ago to my career certainly don't take on the same perspective today, like Hollywood functions, premieres, parties and such.

Sitting on a country fence and watching the stars bloom like fireflies in the sky.

The clean, sweet smell of newly ironed bedsheets and pajamas after a long, tiring day.

The joy of coming home to someone you'd hate ever to be without.

Discovering your tomato plants escaped the cutworms that have wrecked every neighbor's garden.

Awarding a 50-cent prize to the small lad at a picnic who can spit a watermelon seed the farthest.

All the wonderful taste boons of summer—blueberries and strawberries, milk-white corn on the cob, the golden flesh of cantaloupes, and the innocent refreshment of glass after tall glass of tangy ice tea.

The startlement of plunging deep into a cold lake.

Hunting for four-leaf clovers with a young lady while she chatters on about how glad she is that she weathered kindergarten and how fearful she is of the perils that await her in the first grade.

Seeing the prideful patriotism veterans carrying a flag in a parade.

Finding out that those little insects on your back porch aren't termites after all.

Opening your pay envelope and discovering a little more there, proving that the boss is still aware that you're in the land of the living.

The memory of unexpected favors from strangers, which remind us that most men basically still yearn to show kindness to one another.

How can anyone feel low if he itemizes his blessings? One, two, three, four—the list is endless. But don't turn the job over to a computer. Do it yourself. Nothing enlarges the pasture of a man's soul more than to count the blessings he has—and wonder how many of them he truly appreciates.

The gratitude of patients who have learned how to use a hearing aid is great. They must be encouraged to continue to learn because at first they are confused by many new sounds that they have forgotten how to recognize.

When a hearing aid is purchased, it should be used and used constantly. The false notion that you become dependent on it is without any scientific judgment. The dependence on it is itself an excellent sign that it is doing the job for which it was purchased.

How is it possible to find out if a person is allergic to an antibiotic before and not after he takes it?

I have no known allergy to food, drugs or poisons. Yet I developed a fungus infection of the mouth after I had taken an antibiotic for two days. I had never known that I was sensitive to it. When the symptoms appeared, I immediately discontinued the antibiotic and recovered within a few days.

Unfortunately, there are some people who will develop some kind of an unusual side effect from any drug, antibiotic or sulfa. It is for this very reason that patients are told what the purpose of a new drug is and that it should be stopped immediately if any unusual or unexpected side-effects occur.

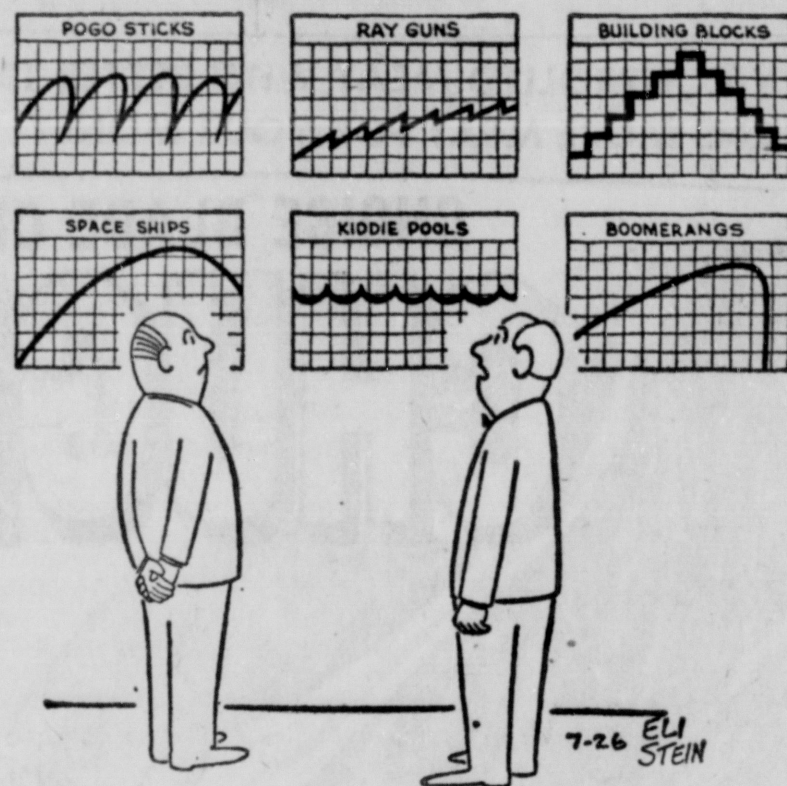

Some patients even react in the exact opposite way from that purpose which the drug was meant to achieve. Such reactions are not always easy to explain.

Trial and error is the best way to learn if you are highly allergic. There are some skin tests which can be performed to detect high sensitivity if it is suspected.

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

What is the best way to induce an elderly member of the family to obtain and correctly use a hearing aid?

As a specialist in ear disease I am constantly confused by the number of elderly people who throw up their hands and dogmatically say, "I will not use a hearing aid."

It is difficult to believe that they really think their vanity is at stake. For some reason the other members of the family fall into a trap and actually allow this nonsense to continue.

The trap is a very special one. I have heard children virtually scream at their deaf parents to make themselves understood.

When finally the patient is brought to our office, almost invariably they say with irritability, "I can hear everybody except my children who mumble." I have learned a technique that usually works and gives them a better insight to their problem.

Sitting opposite them, after I have determined the kind of hearing loss they have, I speak in a lowered voice without making the slightest effort to shout at my patient. Almost immediately he says, "speak louder, I can't hear you." I then turn to the other members of the family and say to each, "Can you hear me?" When they answer "yes," I then ask, "Do I mumble?" The answer to that is "no."

For the first time the patient comes in contact with one who is kind and understanding of their problem but will not raise his voice or decibel to be heard. From this time on our relationship develops until I show them all the advantages of learning to hear with a hearing aid and helping them break the walls of silence.

The gratitude of patients who have learned how to use a hearing aid is great. They must be encouraged to continue to learn because at first they are confused by many new sounds that they have forgotten how to recognize.

When a hearing aid is purchased, it should be used and used constantly. The false notion that you become dependent on it is without any scientific judgment. The dependence on it is itself an excellent sign that it is doing the job for which it was purchased.

Is There More Rioting To Come

By John Chamberlain

Said Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio of Newark, New Jersey, just three months ago: "I do not believe there will be any violence in Newark this summer." Since then there have been some thirty deaths in Newark riots. Talk about famous last words!

The Mayor of Newark, however, is hardly alone in not knowing about the feelings of his own community. For who is aware of what is going on in the minds of people in the places we call ghettos? A very intelligent Negro girl who worked as a journalist in Newark for a period tells me that nobody has made any real study of the internal migrations in this country that have transferred the ancient racial problems of the South to the cities of the North. The migrations are not all of a piece. Some date back to the Twenties, others to the war-time Forties. The last big wave, which is emptying out the Negro population of much of the Deep South, still continues. It is different in quality because it comes from regions in which historically, the Negro has had the least amount of education. The fault goes back to regional poverty more than it does to prejudice, for the Deep South hasn't had the money to spend on education. It takes industrialization to create funds for schools, and the Deep South is only now being industrialized.

My informant, or, as I should say, my educator, tells me that Newark has had a particularly heavy "late" Negro immigration from Georgia, Mississippi, and Alabama. "Newark," she says, "is not like Harlem, whose people 'came by boat,' as my father says." By this she means that Harlem Negroes are many of them, from the Atlantic coast states and the West Indies; they came North when there were coastal steamboats designed for cheap passage, as commemorated in "Porgy and Bess." Many more in Harlem had their ancestral roots in the upper south in Virginia and North Carolina. But in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, as in Newark, the immigration is a "later" phenomenon. And the educational frustrations of Bedford-Stuyvesant are necessarily deeper.

The Negroes of the older migrations, being more literate than the "late" arrivals, have been able to help their children get better educations. The child of an immigrant from a particularly poor Georgia or Mississippi county may enter the third grade, say, in Newark or Brooklyn. But he or she won't be able to read or do arithmetic on a third-grade level. Nor, going to parents for help, will he or she be able to get it.

What is needed in this country, if we are to understand ghetto problems, is a wide-ranging sociological journalism which will seek to document the differences in cultural gaps in various areas. This doesn't necessarily mean that knowledge of differences would enable anyone to predict the location of the next round of violence. Sometimes the frustrations arising from college educations are worse than those that come from dropping out of school. My informant — or, again, my educator — tells me that many of her younger Negro friends are giving up the idea of staying on in college simply because Negroes with advanced degrees don't seem to be able to capitalize on them to obtain positions of responsibility commanding high salaries.

"There's still too much tokenism in industry," my informant tells me. She mentioned an advertising agency, started in the Twenties by American liberals, which has one Negro account executive. "Why one?" she asks.

Since I am a glandular optimist, I keep thinking that each new session of rioting in the ghettos should be the last. For in the rioting and the burning, it is the Negro community, not the white, that does the real suffering and the dying. But informant — or my educator — tells me to discount glandular optimism. She says the amount of "hardware" — meaning guns of various types — that lies stashed away in the ghettos is terrifying. Senator Tom Dodd's proposed gun law cannot be passed in time to affect any control of the nation's floating weaponry.

The guns, my informant — or educator — says, will be used in more than one place before the election of 1968. Senator Robert Kennedy of New York wants to change things by giving private industry tax incentives to hire Negroes and rebuild the slums. But such plans, if put into effect, cannot bring Utopia overnight. There's still ugliness to come.

EMACIATED Le Van Nguyen, 17, is shown after his release from a Viet Cong prison camp by U.S. paratroopers. He had been held in the camp, 11 miles west of Duc Pho, South Vietnam, since February 1966. "How happy I am to be alive," he said after release.

Wise Counsel

The Duke of Edinburgh has been prodding British commerce and industry to abandon stuffy traditions and adopt modern techniques including more aggressive marketing.

Now, in the same spirit, Princess Margaret has spoken favorably of advertising, chiding those critics who prefer trade to be conducted with "reticent gentility."

Prince Philip irritated those who not only resist change but think the royal family should confine itself to opening Parliament and dedicating hospitals. Predictably, Princess Margaret's endorsement of sales promotion brought down the wrath of Labor members of Parliament.

They said her comments were "highly offensive to many loyal British subjects who deplore the waste, dishonesty and lack of taste in the advertising industry."

Advertising his no monopoly on waste, dishonesty and lack of taste. They can be found among politicians, too. Moreover, when in trouble—as Britain's economy is—it's wise to listen to everyone with promising ideas and constructive criticism.

Need Exercise? Count Your Blessings

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The best exercise a man can take is to count his blessings.

Unlike counting calories, it doesn't reduce one's weight. But it's hard to think of a better way to cure the blues.

Being the contrary creature that he is, man is now and then overwhelmed by a nameless melancholy for which he finds it hard to find a reason. He's just in the dumps, and that is it.

As the old saying goes, "Some people can find something to cry about even when they have both arms full of bread."

At such times it can help to shake off the doldrums and revive the spirit simply to sit down and list the things that do put a zing in living.

For example: The courtships of pigeons, which are even more pompous than the courtships of people. The easygoing singing of Andy Williams.

We May Be Slow, But We Get There

THORNDIKE, Maine (AP)—Death came faster than a post card mailed by a Boy Scout to his scoutmaster.

It took more than 52 years for the card to go from Boston, Mass., to Thorndike, Maine.

Both sender and intended receiver died years before the card arrived 11 days ago. Boy Scout Edgar Farwell mailed the card March 2, 1915, to Scoutmaster Lewis E. Hogan saying what a "nice time" he was having in Boston.

Hogan's sister, Mrs. Oscar Tweedie, received the card.

She said it was in perfect condition and the Boston postmark date clearly legible. The card also bore a Portland, Maine, postmark July 12, 1967.

Postal officials at Portland had no explanation for the long delay.

Charged with Drunken Horseback Driving

EUREKA, Calif. (AP)—Two rodeo enthusiasts were freed after being charged with being drunk on horseback on a public highway.

Jack Leroy Erwin, 69, of Hydesville, Calif., pleaded guilty Monday and was fined $56. Gilbert Dias, 44, of Petrolia, Calif., posted $29 bail.

The California Highway Patrol said the two had attended a rodeo in Fortuna Sunday night and had started back for Hydesville, 9 miles away, on Erwin's horse and mule.

Views on TV - Radio

By DOUG MCCLURE
For Cynthia Lowry

Editor's Note: Doug McClure, made his first big impression on the television audience when he played the boyish, sophisticated member of a detective team for a couple of years in "Checkmate." For the past few seasons, his special youthful Robert Montgomery-type of charm has been spread around Shiloh Ranch where he plays the cowboy sidekick of the star in NBC's "The Virginian." Asked about being apparently stalled in featured secondary roles at a critical time in his career, McClure entered his defense.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A couple of questions caused me to stop and take inventory. While I'm not jumping with joy over what I have noted, the record does indicate progress to me.

If I say I'm not content, it indicates to a degree that I don't think much of my present role of Trampas in "The Virginian." This could not be farther from the truth since I am very happy in the role and feel that I have an opportunity to continue to improve as an actor.

And, of course, if I say that I am content to go along the route I'm on, one might see the impression that I lack ambition. This also is untrue.

It seems to me that I am growing as an actor and that I am consistently going upward and I don't see the top of the ladder anywhere in sight right now.

Admitted that much of his business is a matter of images, it also has dignity, honor and integrity. And it requires years of hard work.

I note that my career route has been from commercials to guest-star or guest roles, to television series star billings. In addition, I have moved into motion pictures.

First I was the easy-going all-American type. Then I became the young sophisticated type in "Checkmate." Then the rugged cowboy type. Now I think I have achieved another level, Doug McClure, the actor type.

I always wanted to keep working, and that certainly has been the case. I hoped to go from television to motion pictures, and that has happened. I wanted to go into motion pictures so I could expand my acting and do a variety of roles. This also is happening.

In one with James Stewart I played a young Civil War soldier. In another I was the hero's young brother who got killed. In another I was a World War II GI who escaped from the Japanese. I've done comedy in two films that will be released this year.

I keep looking for mature roles, and I am sure they will come along. As you mature as an actor, I think you also mature as a human being. Things that seemed important 10 years ago to my career certainly don't take on the same perspective today, like Hollywood functions, premieres, parties and such.

Sixtieth Anniversary To Be Quietly Observed

MR. and MRS. JOSEPH L. ANDERSON

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Anderson, 350 East Union St., will quietly observe their 60th wedding anniversary Thursday.

Married July 27, 1907, in Circleville, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson had eight children, four of whom are deceased.

Flower Show Scheduled At Annual Homecoming

One of the highlights of the Commercial Point Homecoming on Aug. 4, will be the Flower Show.

Entries are open to all amateur gardeners who wish to compete. There are eight classes in the arrangement division, nine classes in the specimen division, and six classes of house plants.

In the junior division an arrangement class using any variety of flowers in any type container is open.

Cash awards and ribbons will be given to winning exhibitors. All entries must be made between 1 and 3 p. m. Friday, Aug. 4. Judging will begin at 3:30 p. m. and will be open to exhibitors only.

Material for designs must be garden grown and foreign foliage is allowed in all classes. Any accessories are optional. Specimens must be grown by the exhibitor and placed in a bottle.

Classes in the specimen division are as follows: 1. Tea roses, 1 bloom. 2. Floribunda roses, 1 stem. 3. Gladiolus, large type, 1 spike. 4. Gladiolus, small type, 1 spike. 5. Zinnia, large type, 1 bloom.

6. Zinnia, small type, 3 blooms. 7. Marigold, large type, 1 bloom. 8. Marigold, small type, 3 blooms. 9. Dahlias, large type, 1 bloom. Classes in the artistic arrangement division are as follows: 1. Hawaii — mass arrangement in pastel shades. 2. Grand Canyon — your own interpretation. 3. Smoky Mountains — an all green arrangement. 4. Niagara Falls — an arrangement with water predominating. (For non blue ribbon winners)

5. Las Vegas — abstract (with card explaining). 6. New Mexico — an arrangement using all dry materials. 7. Little Rock, Arkansas — a miniature arrangement not exceeding 6 inches. 8. Yellowstone National Park — an arrangement using a yellow container and yellow flowers.

Classes in the house plant division are as follows: 1. cactus — one potted plant. 2. African violet — one plant, one crown. 3. Geranium — one potted plant. 4. Planter — three or more varieties of plants. 5. Vine — one pot, one variety, may be more than one plant. 6. Any unusual houseplant.

All entries are to be removed between 7 and 8 p. m. Saturday, August 5.

Like other Paris designers, Marc Bohan seemed to be shunning the miniskirt craze, according to buyer sources.

There was a jungle of stripes, used horizontally or vertically on beautiful Besson tweeds.

Capes of every length were shown on suits and dresses. Bohan brought out a series of lace dresses, on colored foundations—blue, green, pink or white.

The buyer consensus, from stores across the United States, was that Bohan has one of his best collections ever.

Bishop Pike, 54, now theologian at the Center for Democratic Institutions in Santa Barbara, did not contest the suit.

The couple announced last week they would end their 25-year marriage due to "outside factors beyond the control of either."

PRAGUE (AP) — All men employed at the factory at Jeciko have to shave at work, the Czechoslovak news agency CTK reported.

The factory produces razor blades and the shaving-room serves for "technical control." The management said it regrets that so many women are employed in the plant, "and the practical tests cannot be extended to all employees," according to the CTK.

Cream butter with parsley and tarragon and use as a spread for French or Italian bread. Slice the bread, but not all the way through; then spread both sides of each slice with some of the herbed butter. Place on foil or wrap in foil and heat in a moderate or hot oven before serving.

VEGETABLE DISHES SERVE DESSERT — Ice cream balls and sauce. Handsome silver pitcher holds grouping of roses.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a House subcommittee that went to South Vietnam to check complaints about the M-16 rifle says the military may have muzzled soldiers the panel queried.

Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., read portions of several letters that charged soldiers were kept from giving the House probes true information about the controversial rifle.

"If this information is accurate, and there is some basis for belief in the information," Ichord said as the subcommittee reopened hearings Tuesday, "it stands as a shocking example of muzzling by our military leaders on a subject that can mean life or death to our combat soldiers."

Ichord said his panel's June visit to Vietnam uncovered few grips about the effectiveness of the M16.

But on returning, he said, members began to get letters from servicemen and relatives of men serving in Vietnam saying field commanders threatened punishment if the congressmen were told of problems with the weapon.

The Pentagon said later that Corps are investigating the allegations.

WASHINGTON (AP) — John T. McNaughton, who would have become secretary of the Navy Aug. 1, was buried Tuesday following church rites attended by President Johnson.

McNaughton, his wife Sarah and their 11-year-old son Theodore were killed July 19 in a North Carolina plane crash. Only a few days before the Senate had confirmed Johnson's appointment of McNaughton to the Navy post.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., of the House Antitrust subcommittee says the panel's staff has begun a probe of the auto insurance industry. Celler said he has received more than 120 complaints alleging unfair practices and discrimination in the setting of insurance rates.

President Johnson has named career diplomat Martin J. Hillenbrand, 51, a Youngstown, Ohio, native, to be the first U.S. ambassador to Communist Hungary. The appointment is subject to Senate confirmation.

Chairman John M. Mahan of the Subversive Activities Control Board says he has ordered the board's newest member, Simon F. McHugh, to avoid public utterances in connection with the controversy surrounding McHugh's appointment. The controversy arose after it was charged that McHugh, 29, got the $26,000-a-year post principally because he married President Johnson's former secretary.

Today in Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a House subcommittee that went to South Vietnam to check complaints about the M-6 rifle says the military may have muzzled soldiers the panel queried.

Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., read portions of several letters that charged soldiers were kept from giving the House probes true information about the controversial rifle.

"If this information is accurate, and there is some basis for belief in the information," Ichord said as the subcommittee reopened hearings Tuesday, "it stands as a shocking example of muzzling by our military leaders on a subject that can mean life or death to our combat soldiers."

Ichord said his panel's June visit to Vietnam uncovered few grips about the effectiveness of the M16.

But on returning, he said, members began to get letters from servicemen and relatives of men serving in Vietnam saying field commanders threatened punishment if the congressmen were told of problems with the weapon.

The Pentagon said later that Corps are investigating the allegations.

WASHINGTON (AP) — John T. McNaughton, who would have become secretary of the Navy Aug. 1, was buried Tuesday following church rites attended by President Johnson.

McNaughton, his wife Sarah and their 11-year-old son Theodore were killed July 19 in a North Carolina plane crash. Only a few days before the Senate had confirmed Johnson's appointment of McNaughton to the Navy post.

Leo Morgan Holds District Elks Position

Leo Morgan, 407 E. Franklin St., was appointed district deputy grand exalted ruler of the BPO Elks for Ohio's South Central District.

A past exalted ruler of the Circleville Lodge and a past district chairman, Morgan will have 14 lodges under his jurisdiction during his one year term.

The district deputy serves as the representative of the grand exalted ruler of the Elks and inspects each lodge under his jurisdiction.

Morgan is a home designer for Circleville Lumber Co. Married to the former Christine Schreiner, they have two sons, Larry, who is a sophomore in the College of architecture at Ohio State University, and Christopher, a ninth grader at Circleville Junior High School.

MORGAN recently returned from the Elks National Convention in Chicago, where he was one of 214 district deputies appointed. There were 212 at the convention.

The Circleville Lodge celebrated its 75th Anniversary year during Morgan's tenure as exalted ruler. Presently serving as trustee of the local lodge, he has held every office in the lodge here and on a district level.

Also attending the grand lodge convention last week in Chicago were Robert Huffer, exalted ruler of the Circleville Lodge and Tom Eveland. Mrs. Morgan accompanied her husband to Chicago.

Letter To The Editor

I agree with Franklin D. Smith whose letter was in Friday — July 21st's paper, concerning the proposed county airport. It's not that important or necessary! I too, think our tax payers have enough to pay in taxes — without having any more taxes to pay such as that!

I think we'd best tend to the problems we already face before raising more problems; For instance, the fire department asked for a raise—I say they deserve it, after all they're the lowest paid skilled workers in our community! They not only risk their lives, but also their health!

Fire Fighters in other cities all around us are paid far more than Circleville Fire Fighters; and you know darn well we couldn't do without the fire department! They deserve a raise — they aren't getting enough pay now to maintain their welfare. As I said before, I think its best that we tend to the problems we now face before creating more.

I think it is a disgrace for them to work for a $1.63 and only work up to $1.80 an hour for what they have to know and do. The way the cost of living is I don't see how they make it.

Ohio Legislature

Year-Round School Bill Clears Ohio Senate 23-7

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill that could lead to year-round operation of Ohio's elementary and secondary schools has cleared the Ohio Senate for the first time in three legislative sessions.

The measure went to the House Tuesday on a 23-7 vote after nearly an hour of debate. It would permit school boards to adopt so-called trimester or four-quarter programs and rotate students to provide up to a third more classroom space.

The legislation which died in the Senate at the 1963 and 1965 sessions cleared the upper chamber on a busy day that included another Republican stalemate on proposed new taxes.

Majority Republicans caucused for more than two hours and then canceled a scheduled tax-school meeting of a Senate subcommittee considering the controversial issues.

It was readily reported Republican senators were divided over a proposal to include some sort of aid to parochial schools in appropriations for the 1967-69 biennium. Reports said a proposal for $20 million in aid to non-public schools touched off the controversy.

Otherwise, subcommittee spokesmen indicated the tax increase package had pretty well jelled and the subcommittee probably will recommend:

—A one per cent increase in the state sales tax.
—Extension of the sales tax to include cigarettes, laundry, and dry cleaning.

—A penny-a-pack boost in the five-cent tax on cigarettes.

—Lowering the point in which collection of the sales tax begins from 31 to 16 cents.

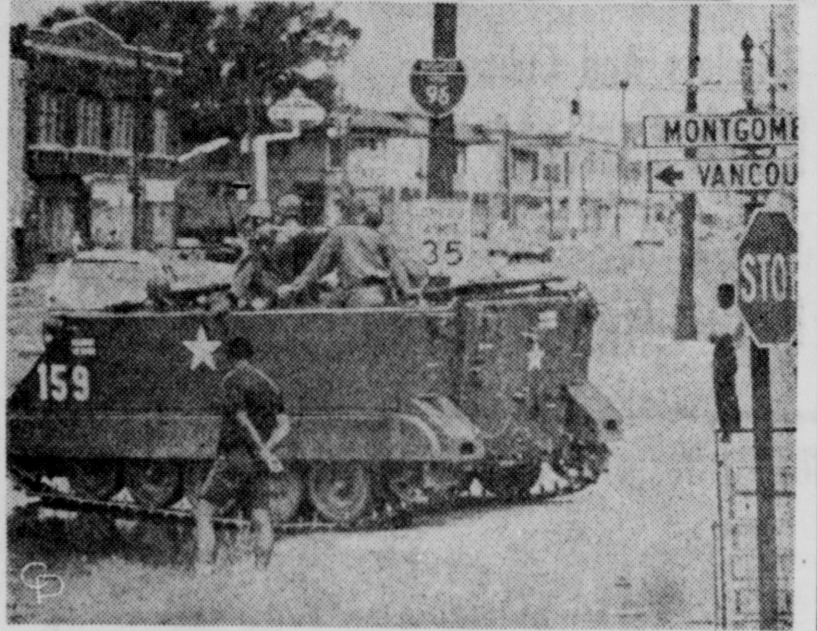

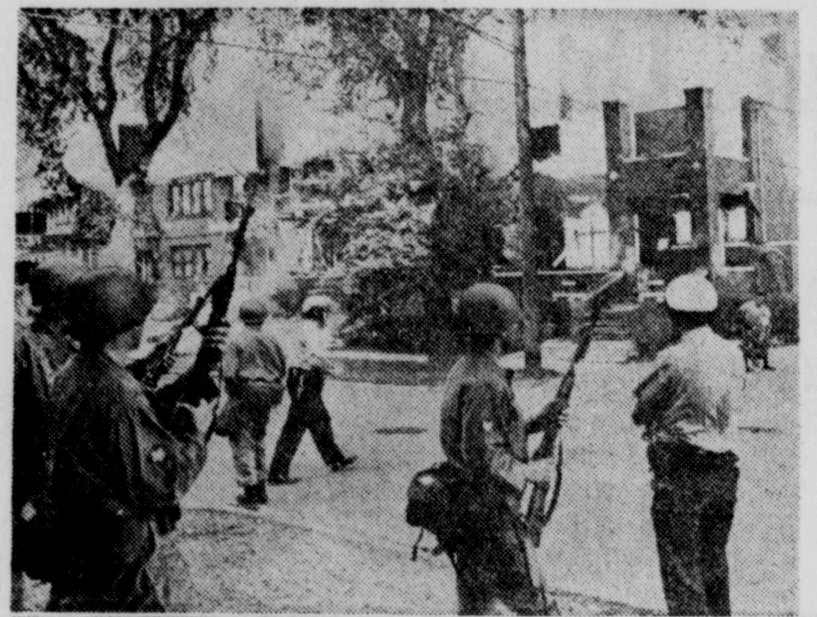

—Redefining of "direct use" exemptions in the sales tax to include only those items which actually are used in a machine which manufactures products.

No estimate has been made on possible yield of the tax package but it appeared to observers that it would yield far more than the additional $256 million requested by the administration to boost school appropriations in the 1967-69 biennium to a record $1.2 billion.

Across the Statehouse, representatives gave overwhelming to their second rioting bill in as many days. The latest measure would permit police to cordon off trouble areas and halt sale of firearms, ammunition, and other dangerous items.

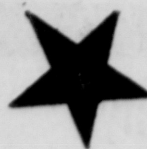

Representatives completed passage of two Senate bills approving land transfers in Lancaster and Circleville to facilitate a centralized National Guard armory at Tarlton.

DETROIT: CITY BESIEGED — A city block burns fiercely (top) while National Guardsmen keep a vigil against looters on Detroit's west side. An armored personnel carrier stands guard (bottom) and state Guardsmen watch for snipers.

Pope Paul VI Visits Ancient Holy Places

ISTANBUL (AP) — A Turkish airliner carried Pope Paul VI today on a pilgrimage to the ancient Christian shrines of Izmir and nearby Ephesus.

Turkish President Cevdet Sunay, Premier Suleyman Demirel and a 21-gun salute saw the Roman Catholic pontiff off from Istanbul, where he arrived Monday for the first papal visit to Turkey in 12 centuries.

Patriarch Athenagoras, spiritual leader of the world's 150 million Orthodox Christians, headed the religious leaders who came to see the Pope off.

The Pope and the Patriarch, who Tuesday night pledged new efforts to reunite their separated churches, talked for five minutes at the airport and embraced twice with the "kiss of peace."

The purposes of the Pope's trip, his fifth outside Italy in the four years of his reign, are to reiterate his desire for church unity and peace in the world and to commemorate the Ecumenical Council of Ephesus, where tradition says the Virgin Mary resided for a time.

104 Project Bids Opened By Highway

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bids on 104 projects with a total construction value of more than $15.4 million were opened by the Ohio Department of Highways Tuesday. State estimates on the work totaled more than $16.7 million.

Two Clark County projects, scheduled for bid opening, were canceled and rescheduled for Sept. 6 by the department. These include constructing an interchange with Interstate 70 and relocating 4.6 miles of U.S. 68. The action was taken so design could be brought to new standards recently set by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads. Major project bids opened Tuesday include:

COLUMBIANA — Paving and constructing bridge on 2.20 miles of County Road 707; apparent low bid Ben Cookson Inc., New Philadelphia, $499,563; state estimate $393,450.

HIGHLAND — Paving 3.82 miles of township and county road C-27A; apparent low bid Clinton Asphalt Paving Co., Wilmington, $499,563; state estimate $510,500.

LICKING — Paving and constructing five bridges on 7.72 miles of Ohio 657 and U. S. 62; apparent low bid Walter Jones Construction Co., Wooster $1,340,098; state estimate $1,603,200.

MARION and WYANDOT — Paving and constructing five bridges on 4.50 miles of U.S. 23; apparent low bid A. J. Baltes, Inc., Norwalk, $3,497,497; state estimate $3,384,700.

WARREN — Paving and constructing scenic overlooks on Interstate 71; apparent low bid Clinton Asphalt Paving Co., Wilmington, $441,596; state estimate $479,450.

HAMILTON — Paving and constructing two bridges on .57 miles of U.S. 52; apparent low bid H. & F. H. Hosea Co., Cincinnati, $2,198,271; state estimate $2,520,000.

MONTGOMERY and PREBLE — Resurfacing 4.55 miles of Ohio 48 in Montgomery County and 8.41 miles of U.S. 35 and 1.37 miles of Ohio 355 in Preble County; apparent low bid Walter L. Follmer Inc., Hamilton, $259,761; state estimate $244,300.

SCIOTO — Resurfacing 34.25 miles of roads and facilities in Shawnee State Forest; apparent low bid Goff-Kirby Co., Portsmouth, $226,963; state estimate $334,000.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI was a pretty crummy outfit when he took it over, full of political pets and incompetents. He quickly built it into an American institution. It's been that way since.

In three years he had cleaned out the misfits and put it on its feet. This has been a great satisfaction to J. Edgar Hoover but peace of mind doesn't always accompany satisfaction. He has been picked and pecked at almost from the beginning. Some times he has reacted with heat. Much of the criticism has been ludicrous.

Hoover had been a lawyer with the Department of Justice seven years when he was chosen at 29 to head the Bureau of Investigation, which wasn't called the Federal Bureau of Investigation until 1935.

He is 72 now and today is the 50th anniversary of the start of his government service. He has headed the FBI 43 years.

In the government, retirement is mandatory at 70 but in his case President Johnson waived that requirement.

He set the course the FBI has followed from the day the attorney general, Harlan Fiske Stone, offered him the job. He said he would accept only on these conditions:

He would run the agency. Politicians couldn't tell him what to do or whom to hire. Appointments would be by merit and so would advancement. He staffed the FBI with young lawyers and accountants as agents whose number has risen from 441 to 6,625.

Before they are accepted they must survive an investigation of their conduct, common sense and loyalty. They have to go through a 14-week training course.

The year after he took the job Hoover laid down a rule which still is in effect: an agent must by his conduct eliminate criticism. Even in their clothing the agents are inconspicuous.

Hoover put the FBI ahead of most of the nation's police departments — probably all of them — in 1926 when he warned his agents never to use threats or inducements to get confessions. You never hear of FBI agents using third-degree.

It has been a rather stylish tradition among some liberals to criticize Hoover as a dictator. There is no doubt he runs the FBI with an iron hand. But anyone who objects to that can try to answer this question:

If you were running an agency like the FBI, and didn't invoke rigid discipline, how would you keep the politicians' paws off it and keep your agents free of outside discipline and inside corruption?

What has been overlooked or forgotten is that Hoover has never sought to extend his power but, on the other hand, opposed its extension.

He opposed President Franklin D. Roosevelt's idea that the FBI should take over all federal investigations. In the 1930s, when the country was shaken by spreading gangsterism and killings and demands were being made to federalize the nation's police, he opposed that, too.

He has insisted from the beginning that local problems of law and order are the jurisdiction of the local authorities, not the FBI.

In Roosevelt's day there were reports that liberals in his administration were turning sour on Hoover, fearing he had too much authority. At the same time Ku Klux Klan leaders were trying to get him out.

He was criticized for the way he made it. This has been an endless story. It just takes new variations from time to time.

He has even been criticized for almost never holding a news conference, and being very hard for newsmen to see individually, although he is not required to hold such conferences and whether he does or not is strictly his privilege.

Hoover summed up his bureau's problems in 1956 when he said of civil rights cases: the FBI is unpopular if it obtains facts which result in prosecutions and it is unpopular if it doesn't.

He told his agents: "Our sole purpose is to do our job objectively." It is hard to think of anything more impressive in government service than the FBI record, ranging from its success with gangsters and Nazi saboteurs to cutting the American Communist party to pieces by infiltrating it.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, July 26, the 207th day of 1967. There are 158 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: In 1947, Congress passed a bill to merge the U.S. armed services under a single secretary of defense.

On this date:

In 1847, Liberia, the only sovereign Negro democracy in Africa, was declared a republic.

In 1952, during the early morning hours, Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois was chosen presidential nominee of the Democrats at their nominating convention in Chicago.

In 1953, Fidel Castro began his revolution in Cuba against the government of Dictator Fulgenio Batista.

In 1956, Egyptian crowds hailed President Gamal Abdel Nasser in Alexandria as he issued a decree nationalizing the internationally owned Suez Canal.

In 1964, Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa was convicted of mail and wire fraud and conspiracy in the use of his union's fund.

In 1965, Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg was sworn in as U.S. representative at the United Nations.

Ten years ago — Guatemalan President Carlos Castillo Armas was shot to death in his presidential palace in Guatemala City by a member of his palace guard.

Five years ago — A Labor motion to censure the Conservative government of British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan was defeated in the House of Commons by a vote of 351 to 253.

One year ago — The State Department disassociated itself from a call by South Vietnam's Premier Ky for an immediate confrontation with Communist China.

104 Project Bids Opened By Highway

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bids on 104 projects with a total construction value of more than $15.4 million were opened by the Ohio Department of Highways Tuesday. State estimates on the work totaled more than $16.7 million.

Two Clark County projects, scheduled for bid opening, were canceled and rescheduled for Sept. 6 by the department. These include constructing an interchange with Interstate 70 and relocating 4.6 miles of U.S. 68. The action was taken so design could be brought to new standards recently set by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Major project bids opened Tuesday include:

COLUMBIANA — Paving and constructing bridge on 2.20 miles of County Road 797; apparent low bid Ben Cookson Inc., New Philadelphia, $329,026; state estimate $393,450.

HIGHLAND — Paving 3.82 miles of township and county road C-27A; apparent low bid Clinton Asphalt Paving Co., Wilmington, $499,563; state estimate $510,500.

LICKING — Paving and constructing five bridges on 7.72 miles of Ohio 657 and U.S. 62; apparent low bid Walter Jones Construction Co., Wooster $1,340,098; state estimate $1,603,200.

MARION and WYANDOT — Paving and constructing five bridges on 4.50 miles of U.S. 23; apparent low bid A. J. Baltes, Inc., Norwalk, $3,497,497; state estimate $3,384,700.

WARREN — Paving and constructing scenic overlooks on Interstate 71; apparent low bid Clinton Asphalt Paving Co., Wilmington, $441,596; state estimate $479,450.

HAMILTON — Paving and constructing two bridges on .57 miles of U.S. 52; apparent low bid H. & F. H. Hosea Co., Cincinnati, $2,198,271; state estimate $2,520,000.

MONTGOMERY and PREBLE — Resurfacing 4.55 miles of Ohio 48 in Montgomery County and 8.41 miles of U.S. 35 and 1.37 miles of Ohio 355 in Preble County; apparent low bid Walter L. Follmer Inc., Hamilton, $259,761; state estimate $244,300.

SCIOTO — Resurfacing 34.25 miles of roads and facilities in Shawnee State Forest; apparent low bid Goff-Kirby Co., Portsmouth, $226,963; state estimate $334,000.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI was a pretty crummy outfit when he took it over, full of political pets and incompetents. He quickly built it into an American institution. It's been that way since.

In three years he had cleaned out the misfits and put it on its feet. This has been a great satisfaction to J. Edgar Hoover but peace of mind doesn't always accompany satisfaction. He has been picked and pecked at almost from the beginning. Some times he has reacted with heat. Much of the criticism has been ludicrous.

Hoover had been a lawyer with the Department of Justice seven years when he was chosen at 29 to head the Bureau of Investigation, which wasn't called the Federal Bureau of Investigation until 1935.

He is 72 now and today is the 50th anniversary of the start of his government service. He has headed the FBI 43 years.

In the government, retirement is mandatory at 70 but in his case President Johnson waived that requirement.

He set the course the FBI has followed from the day the attorney general, H. A. R. Fiske Stone, offered him the job. He said he would accept only on these conditions:

He would run the agency. Politicians couldn't tell him what to do or whom to hire. Appointments would be by merit and so would advancement. He staffed the FBI with young lawyers and accountants as agents whose number has risen from 441 to 6,825.

Before they are accepted they must survive an investigation of their conduct, common sense and loyalty. They have to go through a 14-week training course.

The year after he took the job Hoover laid down a rule which still is in effect: an agent must by his conduct eliminate criticism. Even in their clothing the agents are inconspicuous.

Hoover put the FBI ahead of most of the nation's police departments — probably all of them — in 1925 when he warned his agents never to use threats or inducements to get confessions. You never hear of FBI agents using third-degree.

It has been a rather stylish tradition among some liberals to criticize Hoover as a dictator. There is no doubt he runs the FBI with an iron hand. But anyone who objects to that can try to answer this question:

If you were running an agency like the FBI, and didn't invoke rigid discipline, how would you keep the politicians' paws off it and keep your agents free of outside discipline and inside corruption?

What has been overlooked or forgotten is that Hoover has never sought to extend his power but, on the other hand, opposed its extension.

He opposed President Franklin D. Roosevelt's idea that the FBI should take over all federal investigations.

Death Penalty Appears To Be on Its Way Out

CHICAGO (AP)—Death appears to be dying as the supreme penalty of American justice, even though most states cling to capital punishment statutes.

A survey by The Associated Press showed that 13 states have abolished the death penalty or so severely restricted its use as to make it almost non-existent. Some states have not executed a criminal in decades.

Most death penalties are imposed for murder. But some states can execute for rape, kidnapping, armed robbery, treason against the state. In Oklahoma, the death penalty legally can be imposed for peddling narcotics to minors.

But death at the hands of the state is becoming a rarity and the voice of the abolitionists is louder and more frequent.

Legal executions have been abolished in Alaska, Hawaii, Iowa, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, Oregon, West Virginia and Wisconsin. It has been abolished with qualifications in New York and Vermont and has been on the books in Rhode Island since 1864—but never used.

The death penalty was abolished by the New York Legislature in 1965. An exclusion involves persons who kill policemen or kill while escaping from prison.

The Vermont Legislature repealed capital punishment laws in 1965 except in cases where a second murder is committed or a police officer is killed in the line of duty.

The Rhode Island law applies only to persons who are sentenced to life imprisonment for first-degree murder, and who later are convicted of another first-degree murder.

That specific situation has never arisen in the state.

Maryland, New Mexico and North Carolina currently are prime targets of abolitionists activity. Bills to eliminate the death penalty were defeated by narrow margins in recent legislative sessions. In California a major court test is being sought in the wake of legislative action.

Recurrent bills to eliminate the death penalty have been introduced in many states, but either were defeated or died in committee.

Other abolitionist attempts have been made without success in recent years in Montana, Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, South Carolina, Texas, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Nevada, Arkansas, Tennessee, Utah, Idaho, Virginia, Washington, Mississippi, Nebraska, Missouri, Connecticut, New Jersey and Louisiana.

In the November 1966 election, Colorado voters defeated an abolition measure by a 2-1 margin.

Iron Bars Do A Prison Make

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—The fire rescue squad was called early today to saw one of the bars on an Ashland County Jail window and get a prisoner back into jail.

Deputies said John Faust, 20, of Ashland attempted to break jail but became stuck between bars on a window after prying open two padlocks to get out of the cell area.

Faust, charged with arson, is accused of burning down the barn of a Mifflin man who refused him permission to hunt on the property.

British Film Industry Thrives on Eady Plan

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
LONDON (AP)—The British film industry is thriving as never before, and a major reason for the prosperity is the government's Eady Plan.

The English have had such success with the plan that film industries of other nations are eyeing it as a solution to their ills. The long-ailing German movie industry is seeking aid through government subsidy, and there is even talk of it in Hollywood.

Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, has acknowledged that the suggestion of a government or nongovernment subsidy is being studied.

The Eady Plan was instituted in the late 1940s, when war-battered Britain tightened up its imports to save precious pounds. The government levied a 75 per cent tax on U.S. films, causing American companies to stop sending their product. Deprived of films, theaters closed, and the entire English film business began sinking.

Harold Wilson, then president of the Board of Trade, instructed the board's permanent secretary, Sir Wilford Eady, to devise a solution.

It was this: Virtually every theater ticket sold in the United Kingdom would include a levy amounting to less than a penny. This money would go into a fund which would repay producers who made "British quota films." To qualify under the quota, a picture would need to pay between 75 to 80 per cent of its labor costs to British subjects or those living in British countries.

Eric Johnston, then head of the American producers, was unenthusiastic about the Eady Plan but accepted it to placate the English. It has proved a boon to British film makers but a thorn in the side of Hollywood labor leaders who claim the Eady Plan encourages "runaway production."

It is problematical whether the Eady Plan has robbed Hollywood of specific films that could have been made in America. A few instances might be cited. But epithets like "runaway" can't stop the continuing trend of American companies seeking the advantages of the Eady Plan.

"The reason for our prosperity is that we're making pictures with American money," says British Bryan Forbes, now directing "Deadfall" with Michael Caine for 20th Century-Fox.

One of the provisions of the Eady Plan is that only two of a film's key personnel may be non-British. Often one star and the director will be American. But there is a growing colony of American producers who have become English residents to take advantage of the Eady Plan. One of these is Walter Shenson.

Born in San Francisco, Shenson was press agent for films like "From Here to Eternity" and "The Loves of Carmen" until Columbia sent him to London. Here he saw more gold in making movies than publicizing them. His first effort was "The Mouse that Roared." Later he struck a bonanza with the Beatles pictures, which made him a millionaire.

Death Penalty Appears To Be on Its Way Out

CHICAGO (AP) —Death appears to be dying as the supreme penalty of American justice, even though most states cling to capital punishment statutes.

A survey by The Associated Press showed that 13 states have abolished the death penalty or so severely restricted its use as to make it almost non-existent. Some states have not executed a criminal in decades.

Most death penalties are imposed for murder. But some states can execute for rape, kidnapping, armed robbery, treason against the state. In Oklahoma, the death penalty legally can be imposed for peddling narcotics to minors.

But death at the hands of the state is becoming a rarity and the voice of the abolitionists is louder and more frequent.

Legal executions have been abolished in Alaska, Hawaii, Iowa, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, Oregon, West Virginia and Wisconsin. It has been abolished with qualifications in New York and Vermont and has been on the books in Rhode Island since 1864—but never used.

The death penalty was abolished by the New York Legislature in 1965. An exclusion involves persons who kill policemen or kill while escaping from prison.

The Vermont Legislature repealed capital punishment laws in 1965 except in cases where a second murder is committed or a police officer is killed in the line of duty.

The Rhode Island law applies only to persons who are sentenced to life imprisonment for first-degree murder, and who later are convicted of another first-degree murder.

That specific situation has never arisen in the state.

Maryland, New Mexico and North Carolina currently are prime targets of abolitionists activity. Bills to eliminate the death penalty were defeated by narrow margins in recent legislative sessions. In California a major court test is being sought in the wake of legislative action.

Recurrent bills to eliminate the death penalty have been introduced in many states, but either were defeated or died in committee.

Other abolitionist attempts have been made without success in recent years in Montana, Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, South Carolina, Texas, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Nevada, Arkansas, Tennessee, Utah, Idaho, Virginia, Washington, Mississippi, Nebraska, Missouri, Connecticut, New Jersey and Louisiana.

In the November 1966 election, Colorado voters defeated an abolition measure by a 2-1 margin.

Iron Bars Do A Prison Make

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—The fire rescue squad was called early today to saw one of the bars on an Ashland County Jail window and get a prisoner back into jail.

Deputies said John Faust, 20, of Ashland attempted to break jail but became stuck between bars on a window after prying open two padlocks to get out of the cell area.

Faust, charged with arson, is accused of burning down the barn of a Mifflin man who refused him permission to hunt on the property.

British Film Industry Thrives on Eady Plan

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
LONDON (AP) — The British film industry is thriving as never before, and a major reason for the prosperity is the government's Eady Plan.

The English have had such success with the plan that film industries of other nations are eyeing it as a solution to their ills. The long-ailing German movie industry is seeking aid through government subsidy, and there is even talk of it in Hollywood.

Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, has acknowledged that the suggestion of a government or nongovernment subsidy is being studied.

The Eady Plan was instituted in the late 1940s, when war-battered Britain tightened up its imports to save precious pounds. The government levied a 75 per cent tax on U.S. films, causing American companies to stop sending their product. Deprived of films, theaters closed, and the entire English film business began sinking.

Harold Wilson, then president of the Board of Trade, instructed the board's permanent secretary, Sir Wilford Eady, to devise a solution.

It was this: Virtually every theater ticket sold in the United Kingdom would include a levy amounting to less than a penny. This money would go into a fund which would repay producers who made "British quota films." To qualify under the quota, a picture would need to pay between 75 to 80 per cent of its labor costs to British subjects or those living in British countries.

Eric Johnston, then head of the American producers, was unenthusiastic about the Eady Plan but accepted it to placate the English. It has proved a boon to British film makers but a thorn in the side of Hollywood labor leaders who claim the Eady Plan encourages "runaway production."

It is problematical whether the Eady Plan has robbed Hollywood of specific films that could have been made in America. A few instances might be cited. But epithets like "runaway" can't stop the continuing trend of American companies seeking the advantages of the Eady Plan.

"The reason for our prosperity is that we're making pictures with American money," says British Bryan Forbes, now directing "Deadfall" with Michael Caine for 20th Century-Fox.

One of the provisions of the Eady Plan is that only two of a film's key personnel may be non-British. Often one star and the director will be American. But there is a growing colony of American producers who have become English residents to take advantage of the Eady Plan. One of these is Walter Shenson.

Born in San Francisco, Shenson was press agent for films like "From Here to Eternity" and "The Loves of Carmen" until Columbia sent him to London. Here he saw more gold in making movies than publicizing them. His first effort was "The Mouse that Roared." Later he struck a bonanza with the Beatles pictures, which made him a millionaire.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Often, It's Mothers Who Need Help

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter signed "ASHAMED," from the mother who hollered at her little, 10-year-old daughter, telling her to get out of the house, and she didn't care if she ever came back. And all because the child was a little slow getting dressed. After the child left, the mother sat down and cried and she wrote you a letter.

Abby, that mother could have been me a few years ago. I was also an "ashamed mother" for a good many years, crying after the children left for school because I had behaved so atrociously. Oftentimes I would use abusive language and scream at my children. Then I would hide and cry and pray for forgiveness.

My children were doing poorly in school, which prompted my doctor to suggest that I attend the Child Guidance center in our area. I can't tell you how much good it did me. The counseling I got there was exactly what I needed. So please, Abby, tell other ashamed mothers not to be ashamed. To get help. And with it will come a happiness their whole family will share.

GRATEFUL MOTHER
DEAR ABBY: ASHAMED shouldn't think she is the only mother who loses her temper with her children and regrets it later. Sometimes I wonder how some children can stand their mothers. Last week I screamed like a maniac at my 10-year-old son. I would do anything in the world to keep him from getting hurt, yet I am the one who seems to hurt him the most. I couldn't believe it was my voice saying all those horrible things to that boy.

Those temper fits left me with a churning stomach and raw nerves, so I finally went to my doctor, hoping he would give me something to calm my nerves. He gave me something all right. A good talking to. He explained that sometimes mothers take out all their anger and hurt on their children because they are always handy, and the poor little things can't fight back. I then realized that was my problem. And now that I understand why I acted like I did, I am better able to control myself.

Print this, if it will help others realize why they are forever exploding all over their kids. It helped me.

FORMERLY ASHAMED
DEAR ABBY: I am another ASHAMED MOTHER, like the one who wrote to you. Let me tell you how I cured myself. I have five children. The oldest is 11. I used to blow my top when the kids would bicker and fight, which when you come right down to it is normal for all kids who are close in age. I would get real violent and yell like a mad woman at all of them for something one of them did. I knew this wasn't fair, but I couldn't help myself.

I finally got all the kids together and told them I hoped they realized that Mom was only human, and she wasn't always in a good mood. That sometimes she got grouchy and edgy, and they should remember that when the ranted and raved it didn't mean she loved them any less. Most parents don't give their children enough credit for understanding lots of things. Kids don't always mean what they say, and I explained that sometimes parents don't either.

God bless their little hearts. They listened and understood, and now we have a better relationship all the way 'round. Sign me, "A 28-year-old mother of five wonderful kids."

Detroit's Rioting Fails To Follow Usual Pattern

EDITOR'S NOTE—The riots in Detroit have not followed the same pattern of development set in Harlem in 1964 and followed closely ever since. Reporter Austin Scott, who has been on the scene for nine of these civil uprisings explores the different turn taken by Detroit.

By AUSTIN SCOTT
DETROIT (AP)—The large sign chalked on a white scrawl across the charred doorway read "Black Power," but Detroit's second day of violence was aimed not so much at skin color as at color television sets. In no other riot-sacked city has there been such wholesale cooperation between Negroes and whites quelling up like happy locusts for a running grab at life's luxuries.

Shiny Cadillacs, some 1967 models, some driven by Negroes and some by whites, lined up along Grand River Avenue Monday morning to be stowed with everything from stuffed pandas to dining room tables.

A red-haired white man directed operations as dozens of Negroes disappeared into the murky depths of a furniture store basement, emerging with two portable television sets clutched in each hand.

Late Sunday night a happy mob of Negroes and whites busily looting a furniture store politely asked permission from a white homeowner across the street before dragging their stolen plunder through his yard.

White reporters risked beatings to enter Tampa's Central Park Housing Project, but they walked Detroit's streets all day, even without their customary hard helmets, and ran into only mild derision.

Newsman who met only hostile stares in Chicago or violence in Watts, found Detroit residents eager to talk about their own problems with the violence.

Unlike Cleveland or San Francisco, or even Harlem in 1964, almost as many people over 25 as under saw "a piece of the action." Matrons in their fifties leaped nimbly over show windows to grab a lamp, an end table or a lightweight chair, then scurried down the street with faces as impish as those produced by successful girlish pranks.

Negro leaders were puzzled by the lack of demands upon the city that usually came quickly after the first outbreak of violence.

The leaders approved a statement blaming the violence on "a small number of hoodlums and hatemongers." But no one said why the festive atmosphere in the streets Monday was so radically changed from hateful stares and sniping Sunday night.

The odd racial checkerboard of Detroit's slums supplies a partial answer.

Except along 12th Street, an almost entirely Negro neighborhood, the areas where Detroit's violence was born are integrated on a patchwork basis with small groups of whites—and occasional large ones—slipped into the Negro neighborhoods.

"This isn't a race riot," a weary police sergeant commented Monday as he watched the passing parade of looters. "It's a riot of thieves."

Rebel Leader

Tijerina Released

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—Reles Lopez Tijerina, leader of the militant Spanish-American group accused of attacking a rural New Mexico courthouse June 5, is free on bond after six weeks in the state prison.

Tijerina, 40, was released late Monday.

The group he leads asserts its members are heirs to millions of acres in the Southwest under old Spanish land grants.

IBEW Local Charged With Discrimination

CINCINNATI (AP)—A U.S. District Court suit, filed by the attorney-general's office, has charged Cincinnati Local 212 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers with discrimination against Negroes.

Filed in the name of Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark, the suit alleged the union has no Negro journeymen members and only one Negro apprentice, and seeks to halt the discrimination.

Highway Patrol Says Drinking Driver Lethal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A report issued by the Ohio Highway Patrol Tuesday on traffic fatalities during the first six months of the year puts heavy emphasis on "the drinking driver as the primary lethal threat to today's motorists."

Col. Robert M. Chiaramonte, Patrol superintendent, declared in the report:

"According to our records, the motorist is in the most danger if he is: Male, between the ages of 20 and 25, the driver of a passenger car, driving under the influence of alcohol, on a state highway, in a rural area, speeding, and not wearing a seat belt."

"The greatest number of fatalities occur during these conditions."

Of the total number of motorist fatalities listed in the report, 68 per cent of those at fault had been drinking, 14 per cent had not been drinking, and 18 per cent were undetermined.

About 89 per cent of the deaths were males. About 45 per cent of the vehicles were equipped with seat belts, and of those equipped cars, only 21 per cent of the seat belts were in use at the time of the accident.

Excessive speed accounted for 44 per cent of these fatal accidents, the report said. Other reasons included failure to yield the right-of-way, 22 per cent; driving left of center, 15 per cent; driving off highway, 9 per cent; improper passing, 6 per cent; and equipment failure, 3 per cent.

Muny Court Fines Man On 2 Counts

Gerald R. Jenkins, 19, Route 3, was cited into Circleville Municipal Court Tuesday for violating two separate traffic laws.

Judge Sterling M. Lamb fined Jenkins $15 and costs for failing to heed a stop sign and $10 and costs for speeding 45 miles an hour in a 35 mile zone.

Seven persons cited into Court were motorists residing outside Pickaway County. They forfeited bonds totaling $148 for traffic violations.

Three county residents cited for traffic violations paid fines of $67. They were:

Charles L. Brown, 22, Route 1, Orient, fined $15 and costs for failing to heed a stop sign.

Charles B. Robinson Jr., 18, of 819 S. Clinton St., forfeited a $24 for running a stop sign.

James E. Fraunfelder, 37, Route 1, Amanda, forfeited a $19 bond for speeding 55 miles an hour in a 45 mile zone.

MENTAL HEALTH CENTER — Planning the establishment of an activity center for retarded adults in Pickaway County are, from the left, John Pirnstill, Mrs. John A. Moss Jr., Mrs. David Whaley and Tom Downing. The center is being established by the Pickaway County Mental Health Assn., but will function independently.

Retarded Adults Activity Center Plans Developing

Plans are progressing rapidly for the Pickaway County Activity Center for Retarded Adults scheduled tentatively for an Oct. 1, opening.

Several locations are being considered by the committee and many persons have called to offer services, according to Mrs. David Whaley, chairman of the Pickaway County Mental Health Assn.

Both Mrs. Stephen Emory, sheltered workshop specialist from the Bureau of Mental Retardation, and Mrs. Grace Mathison, consultant for Zone 8 of the State Citizen's Planning Committee, plan to be present for the progress report meeting on Aug. 21.

The Pickaway County Mental Health Assn. will have material and information about the proposed center available at their booth at the County Fair.

Donations for the operating of the center for the first year are now being accepted and checks may be made payable to Pickaway County Adult Activity Center and mailed to either John Pirnstill, 472 Edwards Road, or Mrs. Robert McKelvey, 955 Circle Drive. All planning and pre-operating expenses are being met by the Pickaway County Mental Health Assn. donations.

for the Center will not be used for this purpose.

The Adult Activity Center is a separate organization and will function completely separate from the local mental health association.

K of C Officers Attend State Meet

Dallas Elliott Jr., John Vendinski, Dick Theis and George Ebbrecht attended the second of seven statewide schooling conferences conducted by the Ohio State Council Knights of Columbus Sunday in Columbus.

The purpose of the conference was to explain to the subordinate council officers and chairmen in the Columbus area the importance of their offices and to instruct them properly so that they will have successful programs during the year.

Robert Vogelpohl of Cincinnati, head of the Catholic men's organization, presided at the conference.

Toy spaniels have been raised in the United States for perhaps 150 years, but only about 30 are registered with the American Kennel Club each year. The breed has never been popular here.

Battle Rages in Detroit....

Flash fires of racial upheaval leaped across the state with curfews and emergency conditions slapped on Grand Rapids, Saginaw, Flint and Pontiac where two were dead.

In Detroit, hours - long battles deafened a five - square - mile section where a routine police raid on a Negro night spot sparked the original rioting Sunday.

Machinegun bullets spattered through apartment house windows six blocks west of the John Lodge Expressway which bisects the city from north to south.

Four adults and a baby were wounded.

In the same area a 4 - year old girl was found dead of gunshot wounds on the living room floor of her family's apartment. It could not be confirmed immediately whether it was the same building.

Firefighters crept within two blocks of the gold - domed Fisher Building, a 20 - story landmark that can be seen from downtown, three miles south. It houses one of the city's best restaurants and a theater where shows make pre - Broadway.

Bullets cracked in streets lined by the broad plate glass windows of expensive shops that include Saks Fifth Avenue of New York.

Gunfire killed a woman guest at the Harlan House Motel, three blocks from the Fisher Building and the General Motors Building, headquarters of the world's largest manufacturing company.

She was Helen M. Hall, a guest from Oakdale, Conn. She was white.

Three Negro youths were found dead of gunshot wounds at the Algiers Motel, 10 blocks north of the same area.

"It was blam! blam! blam!", reported Associated Press newsmen White Sawyer from the floor of a telephone booth near the Harlan House shooting.

"We've got a helluva battle going here," said an AP newsmen in another West Side section.

The furious West Side fighting engaged only police and National Guardsmen against snipers.

Guard tanks, cannons poking from their slowly revolving turrets, rumbled through the streets. Soldiers, rifles pointed at rooftops, crouched in trucks and armored personnel carriers.

Use The Classifieds

Men of the 101st and 82nd Air-borne divisions, ordered into the city Monday night by President Johnson, stood guard over the East Side, about six miles from the heaviest gunfire.

It was mostly quiet there and over the rest of the city where bars, taverns, movie houses and all places of entertainment have been closed and a curfew has been in force since Sunday.

Cyrus Vance, a special assistant in the Defense Department and Johnson's deputy at the scene, toured the embattled area with Lt. Gen. John Throckmorton, commander of the paratroopers. Gov. George Romney and Mayor Jerome Cavanagh.

"With respect to the East Side, things were much quieter tonight," said Vance. "The incident rates are lower tonight than last night and they were lower last night than the night before."

Throckmorton said there were no plans to move paratroopers to the West Side. Some 1,800 are in the city, another 3,000 camped in pup tents at an air base 20 miles away.

Both Vance and Throckmorton recommended businesses remain open.

"Progress is being made but we're not out of the woods," said Vance.

Romney, who with Cavanagh had sought the federal troops, was asked why they were not being used on the West Side.

"They're making the decisions and they haven't consulted me," he said, referring to Vance and Throckmorton.

The governor also was asked about charges leveled earlier by Rep. Charles Diggs, D-Mich., that politics played a part in the decision on the timing of troops going into the troubled area.

Romney had pressed for use of the troops, but had refused to declare a state of insurrection, a decision that would have nullified millions in insurance claims.

"Diggs told The Associated Press Tuesday that he had phoned the White House as terror mounted Monday night and told the President that if the troops were not sent into the city soon he would go on television and denounce the delay as a political move."

The troops moved within 15 minutes, he said.

"I am not going to comment on that as long as we have the problem we have now," said Romney, a contender for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination. "I may do so later."

The scene of the third night's furious fighting centered around the intersection of 12th Street and Clairmont, the most solidly Negro section in the city, which covers about 10 square blocks.

White families live in small enclaves within the area that surrounds the one section of Detroit that most closely approaches a ghetto.

Negroes and whites have lived together in harmony for years and still do. Few of the homes or apartment houses would be classified as slum dwellings.

"Don't shoot" orders given police and guardsmen when rioting broke out has been credited with keeping to a minimum the hate and "Kill Whitey" slogans that heated riots at Newark, New York's Harlem and Watts in Los Angeles.

Negroes were given no chance to turn their frenzy on white policemen who might have slain other Negroes.

The section also includes the most severe damage caused by arsonists and looters who destroyed blocks - long sections. Devastation could roughly be compared to the leveling of every building in a town of 25,000 people.

Shoemaker Opposes Tax Increase

State Representative Myrl H. Shoemaker spoke out today against a proposed one per cent sales tax on the transfer of real estate.

The bill, if passed, would permit counties to levy up to 1 per cent on real estate transfers. It would replace a one-tenth of one per cent federal tax on land transfers, which will be allowed to lapse at the end of the year expressly to give state and local governments a wider tax base.

Representative Shoemaker pointed out a one per cent tax — $100 on a $10,000 transaction would be nine times greater than the present federal rate.

He says, "Homeowners already are plagued by an excessive tax burden — a disproportionate amount of real estate taxes," and said, "the proposed tax is 'out of tune' with previous assertions of the Rhodes' administration and legislative leaders that real estate taxation in the state is high and that something should be done to relieve this situation."

Representative Shoemaker went on to say, "that the small homeowners build equity slowly and to impose this unjust tax would discourage property improvement, and definitely have an adverse effect on the progress and activity of a community. To further increase taxes on property owners is totally unfair in many respects. County programs are a total responsibility for all people residing in the county and should not fall disproportionately on such a discriminatory tax base."

Cincinnati Reds Lose To Atlanta Braves, 1-0

ATLANTA (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds, down to fourth place after their 1-0 defeat Tuesday night, will take on the Atlanta Braves in a two-night doubleheader tonight.

The Reds lost the opener of their four-game series against Atlanta for a familiar reason: failure to come through with runs for young Gary Nolan, who gave up only five hits. Winner Pat Jarvis limited the Reds to two safeties.

Nolan is now 8-3 for the season. Four of his victories have been by shutouts—three of them by scores of 1-0.

The third-place Braves got their only run just before a shower halted play for 44 minutes in the fifth inning. Denis Menke led off with a triple and scored on Woody Woodward's single that bounced over the head of third baseman Tony Perez.

The next two players popped out and Tito Francoa flied out to left fielder Lee May to end the inning after the delay.

Both the Reds who singled off Jarvis were thrown out trying to steal second base. May got his single with one out in the fifth and was thrown out when he raced for second as Don Pavletich struck out. Chico Ruiz singled with one out in the ninth and was thrown out to end the game after Vada Pinson flied out.

The Reds lost Floyd Robinson for an indefinite period when the outfielder twisted his right knee in the bottom of the fourth inning. He had suffered an injury to that knee before.

The victory was Jarvis' 11th in 14 decisions.

Jim Maloney (8-6) and Mel Queen (9-5) are scheduled to start tonight against Phil Niekro (6-4) and Tony Cloninger (3-5).

Washington Tops Saltcreek, 12-4

Washington Majors dumped Saltcreek, 12-4, Tuesday in Tri-County League play.

Saltcreek Minors turned the tables on Washington Minors, 8-5, in other action.

Doug Marshall pitched the win for Washington Majors, allowing six hits, walking five and fanning eight.

Ron Stevens was losing hurler, giving up 10 hits.

Mark Justus and Gary Francis homered for the winners. Bob Welvin doubled for Saltcreek.

Joe Stump doubled for Saltcreek Minors. Dennis Hite doubled and Steve Marshall homered for Washington.

PITCHING — Pat Jarvis, Braves, pitched a two-hitter as Atlanta beat Cincinnati 1-0 and moved past the Reds into third place in the National League.

HITTING — Rich Allen, Phillies, had four hits, including a homer, drove in four runs, scored three times and stole two bases, leading Philadelphia to a 12-7 pounding of Houston.

Cards Are Back on Top Perch

The St. Louis Cardinals, once again perched atop the National League, are also bidding fair to lead the league in nonchalance.

The Cards opened a critical three-game series with the remarkable Chicago Cubs Tuesday night with both teams tied for the league lead. A brilliant relay play from center field to the plate transformed Ted Savage from the potential Chicago tying run to the final out in a 4-3 St. Louis victory.

And how did the Cardinals react? Calmly, to say the least.

In other less nerve-wracking National League action Tuesday night, Philadelphia pounded Houston 12-7, San Francisco edged New York 5-4, Atlanta nudged Cincinnati 1-0 and Los Angeles beat Pittsburgh 3-1.

In the American League, Kansas City won a doubleheader from Washington 5-1 and 6-5, California beat Boston 6-4, Minnesota and New York played to a 1-1 tie before the game was washed out after nine innings. Chicago took two from Cleveland 3-1 and 6-5 in 16 innings and Detroit at Baltimore was rained out.

The Cubs, though understandably depressed at blowing a chance to savor first place without any company, maintained they made the right play.

The New York Mets drew the best 1967 spring crowd in the National League on May 28 when they played a double header against the Atlanta Braves in New York. A crowd of 48,548 turned out.

Banks had singled in the inning and Savage was hit by a pitch before Card reliever Ron Willis went to 3-2 on Spangler. The runners were off with the pitch and Banks made it home easily before Javier nailed Savage.

Rich Allen carried Philadelphia's big stick, pounding out four hits including his 13th homer driving in four runs, scoring three and stealing two bases. Jim Bunning got his 10th victory.

Jesus Alou's bases-loaded single in the bottom of the ninth won the game for San Francisco after the Mets had tied the game in the top of the inning on John Sullivan's two-run single and Larry Stahl's bouncer to the mound, which scored a run.

Pat Jarvis hurled a two-hitter, leading Atlanta past Cincinnati into third place. The Braves scored in the fifth when Denis Menke tripled and came in on Woody Woodward's single. Bob Bailey drove in a pair of runs with a single and a sacrifice fly and Bill Singer allowed Pittsburgh seven hits in the Dodgers' triumph.

Tight Race Looms In Minor League

The Little League Minors appears to be anybody's league as far as the championship is concerned.

Four teams are within one game apart for the loop crown. And there is one game for each team remaining on the schedule.

Tuesday action saw front-running Circleville Oil dumped by IOOF, 9-6; Savings Bank top Wards, 22-12; Second National upset First National, 10-6; and Blue Ribbon thump Rotary, 11-4.

The Oilmen are 10-3, just a breath ahead of the pack. With 9-4 records are Second National, IOOF and First National.

IF CIRCLEVILLE Oil gets past Savings Bank Friday at 6 p. m. on the main diamond at Ted Lewis Park the title is theirs. But a loss might call for a play off.

Gary Giffen and R. Ramey split mound chores for the Odd Fellows, each working three. They allowed only seven hits between them.

Mace Wins Two Races At Downs

Jim Mace reined back to back wins in the last two races at Scioto Downs Tuesday, winning with Kim's Dream in the eighth and with In Contention in the ninth.

His winning time in the eighth was 2:03. In Contention paced the mile in 2:06 4-5. In other drives last night, Mace finished seventh in the first race with April Valley, third in the second race with Duke of Amboy, third in the fourth race with Chief C, seventh in the fifth with Tennessee Pace.

Jim Arledge entered Lind's Boy in the second race, finishing fourth and was fifth with Red Sea in the fourth.

Forrest Short reined Honor's Kit, owned by E. W. Strawser Jr. and Norman R. Anderson, to a third place in the third race and was third with Mrs. George Fissell's Mary K. Creed in the eighth race.

EMMETT Ebenhack had Dick Frisco in the fifth race, finishing fifth, and was second with May Vo in the seventh race. Ebenhack owns and trains both horses.

Tonight, Mace has Leo's Express in the second race, Naughty Widow in the third, Gladys Lind in the seventh.

Porter Martin will go postward with Hey You in the sixth, Try Yucutan in the seventh and with Jean's Tavern in the eighth. Ebenhack has Countess Jerri entered in the seventh race. Arledge will drive Barb's Gold in the fifth race, Ernie Martin will rein Circle All in the fourth race.

Mace was the sixth leading driver at the Scioto Downs meet. In 60 starts, he was first in 12 races, was nine times second and two times third for a 294 percentage.

Tonight is Circleville, Ashville, Williamsport night at Scioto Downs.

Piranhas Show In 26 Events At Loop Meet

Members of the Circleville Swim Team placed in 26 of 47 swimming events in yesterday's Central Ohio Swim League Championship meet, held in Columbus.

The local swimmers came home with three second place silver medals, four third place bronze medals, three fourth place ribbons, six fifth place ribbons and thirteen sixth place ribbons.

Winning the silver second place medals were Steve Penn in the 25 meter backstroke for boys 10 and under, the girls 12 and under medley relay team consisting of Janet Helwag, Aunda Lintner, Jane Guenther and Mary Black, and the girls 12 and under Freestyle Relay Team consisting of Janet Helwag, Aunda Porter, Cheryl Keller and Mary Black.

Winning the third place bronze medals were Janet Helwag in the 50 meter backstroke for girls 12 and under; Mark Ralston in the 50 meter butterfly for boys 17 and under; Cathy Wilson in the 50 meter breaststroke for girls 12 and under; and Debbie Shea in the 100 meter breaststroke for girls 17 and under.

Next meet for the local swimmers will be the Delaware Invitational Friday and the Champ of Champs meet to be held in Columbus Saturday and Sunday.

Kim's Dream Wins At Scioto Downs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Jim Mace in the sulky drove Kim's Dream to a 2:03 victory in the $1,000 featured pace at Scioto Downs Tuesday night.

Owned by Orville Mickel and Walter Rodgers of Washington Court House, Kim's Dream paid $5.20, $3 and $2.60.

The 3-4 daily double combination of Jerry Greentree and Top Shelf paid $52.

Hummel and Plum '9' Wins Eight-Inning Mosquito Duel

Hummel and Plum fought an eight inning duel with Circle Auto Tuesday in the Mosquito Loop, winning 12-11.

Hummel and Plum didn't score until the third frame. The winners moved ahead in the fourth with five runs. Each side tallied one in the fifth. Circle Auto pushed across five runs in the bottom of the last to throw the tilt into extra innings.

In the seventh it appeared Hummel and Plum had it all wrapped up with four markers. But Circle Auto came back to score four runs of its own. The decisive run came in the top of the eighth.

Bob Brown, Tom Star and Bob Baranick all hurled for the winners. They allowed 12 hits, walking 14 and fanning 14.

DAN Marshall and Randy Swoyer combined on the Circle Auto mound, walking 14, fanning 16 and giving up eight hits.

7-4 Win Keeps Lindsey 'Alive' In BR League

Lindsey took a 7-4 decision over General Electric Tuesday that keeps the Bakers' hopes alive in the Babe Ruth League. Loop leader Kiwanis is 10-3 and has two tilts remaining. Lindsey, 9-4, also has two. L. M. Butch, 4-9, and General Electric, 3-10, are out of contention.

Don Cordle hurled the win for Lindsey, allowing only three hits, all singles. Jack Easter pulled the tilt from the fire with a bases-full triple. Easter also doubled, along with Cordle.

Randy Martin and Chuck Zimmerman shared mound chores for General Electric. Martin tagged a single and George Griebel tagged two for General Electric's hit slate.

IN THE COURT OF COMMON PLEAS, PICKAWAY COUNTY, OHIO
Grace Elizabeth Griffith Plaintiff, vs.
Joe B. Griffith Defendant.

NO. 24903
NOTICE

The defendant, Joe B. Griffith, whose address is 507 East 131st Street, Tacoma, Washington, will take notice that on the 20th day of July, 1967, Grace Elizabeth Griffith filed her Petition against him in the Common Pleas Court of Pickaway County, Ohio, case number 24903, charging him with gross neglect of duty, and praying for an absolute divorce, division of property and equitable relief.

You are required to answer the allegations of said Petition on or before the 2nd day of September, 1967, or have judgment rendered against you by default.

FIRE POWER FOR FIREMEN — National Guardsmen stand by as firemen fight still-burning blazes set by rioters on the west side of Detroit.

Mississippi Political Infighting Is Furious

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The men campaigning for governor of Mississippi stand on decorated flat-bed trucks in court-house squares from Sullivan's Hollow to Piney Ridge and call each other names—"liberals," "Kennedy men" and "Washington pawns."

These are Democrats, striving to win nomination in the party's Aug. 8 primary. The Republicans already have their candidate for the November election, and interest now centers entirely on the "Mississippi Democrats."

"You sure better not label me as a plain Democrat," one candidate warned a newsman. "I'm a Southern or Mississippian Democrat, and you better spell it right."

Despite 185,000 registered Negroes among the 700,000 voters the candidates are not openly soliciting Negro support. Civil rights organizations are concentrating on county and district races in selected areas.

There are seven gubernatorial candidates wearing the "Mississippi Democrat" label: ex-Gov. Ross R. Barnett, Rep. John Bell Williams, State Treasurer William Winter, Bill Waller, Jimmy Swan, Vernon Brown and C.L. McKinley.

The winner will face Rubel Phillips, a Jackson attorney who won 38 per cent of the vote in 1963 as Republican candidate against Democrat Paul B. Johnson Jr., ineligible by law to succeed himself.

Ross Barnett was governor from 1960 to 1964 and made national news in 1962 when James H. Meredith, a Negro, was enrolled in the University of Mississippi.

Opponents are using the incident against Barnett, 69. John Bell Williams calls Barnett the "secret-deal candidate," claiming he agreed with Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to allow Meredith to enter school if Kennedy would make a show of force from federal officers.

Barnett has denied the charge, but Kennedy on a recent trip to the state said such a deal was made.

Barnett is campaigning on a platform of states rights, support of ex-Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama for president, and increased state welfare benefits for the aged and disabled. He has promised a $75-a-month old age pension, now $50 a month.

Williams says he stands for states rights and law and order and never fails to remind listeners that it was he who lost his party seniority in the House for supporting Republican Barry Goldwater against President Johnson in the 1964 election.

Winter, 44, a lawyer from Grenada, served in the Legislature and was state tax collector before winning election as treasurer.

Williams and Barnett both charge that Winter is a liberal. Winter says he is a "responsible conservative" and accused the other candidates of "spouting claptrap."

Business and industrial leaders have rallied behind Winter with large sums of money, and most political observers think he's the leading candidate.

Jimmy Swan, a Hattiesburg radio executive, has the state's ultraconservative vote. Robed Ku Klux Klansmen have, on occasion, appeared at highway intersections handing out his campaign literature.

FIRE POWER FOR FIREMEN — National Guardsmen stand by as firemen fight still-burning blazes set by rioters on the west side of Detroit.

Mississippi Political Infighting Is Furious

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The men campaigning for governor of Mississippi stand on decorated flat-bed trucks in court-house squares from Sullivan's Hollow to Piney Ridge and call each other names—"liberals," "Kennedy men" and "Washington pawns."

These are Democrats, striving to win nomination in the party's Aug. 8 primary. The Republicans already have their candidate for the November election, and interest now centers entirely on the "Mississippi Democrats."

"You sure better not label me as a plain Democrat," one candidate warned a newsman. "I'm a Southern or Mississippi Democrat, and you better spell it right."

Despite 185,000 registered Negroes among the 700,000 voters the candidates are not openly soliciting Negro support. Civil rights organizations are concentrating on county and district races in selected areas.

There are seven gubernatorial candidates wearing the "Mississippi Democrat" label: ex-Gov. Ross R. Barnett, Rep. John Bell Williams, State Treasurer William Winter, Bill Waller, Jimmy Swan, Vernon Brown and C.L. McKinley.

The winner will face Rubel Phillips, a Jackson attorney who won 38 per cent of the vote in 1963 as Republican candidate against Democrat Paul B. Johnson Jr., ineligible by law to succeed himself.

Ross Barnett was governor from 1960 to 1964 and made national news in 1962 when James H. Meredith, a Negro, was enrolled in the University of Mississippi.

Opponents are using the incident against Barnett, 69. John Bell Williams calls Barnett the "secret-deal candidate," claiming he agreed with Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to allow Meredith to enter school if Kennedy would make a show of force from federal officials.

Barnett has denied the charge, but Kennedy on a recent trip to the state said such a deal was made.

Barnett is campaigning on a platform of states rights, support of ex-Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama for president, and increased state welfare benefits for the aged and disabled. He has promised a $75-a-month old age pension, now $50 a month.

Williams says he stands for states rights and law and order and never fails to remind listeners that it was he who lost his party seniority in the House for supporting Republican Barry Goldwater against President Johnson in the 1964 election.

Winter, 44, a lawyer from Grenada, served in the Legislature and was state tax collector before winning election as treasurer.

Williams and Barnett both charge that Winter is a liberal. Winter says he is a "responsible conservative" and accused the other candidates of "spouting claptrap."

Business and industrial leaders have rallied behind Winter with large sums of money, and most political observers think he's the leading candidate.

Jimmy Swan, a Hattiesburg radio executive, has the state's ultraconservative vote. Robed Ku Klux Klansmen have, on occasion, appeared at highway intersections handing out his campaign literature.

Bill Waller is the district attorney who twice tried, but failed, to convict Byron De La Beck with the sniper murder of civil rights leader Medgar W. Evers.

Waller bills himself as "a true conservative" and advocates lower taxes and "more for your dollar."

Vernon Brown, 66, is running his first statewide race after 28 years in county government. He admits he has few financial backers, and his campaign lacks news releases or advertisements.

C.L. McKinley is an employee of a shipyard on the Gulf Coast. He has yet to appear at a major political rally.

PCC Men's League Play Deadlocked

Teams 1 and 3 tied for high honors Tuesday with 18 points in the seventh match of the second round in Pickaway Country Club Men's League action.

Members of Team 1 are George Furfman, Bill Shockley, Lee Cook, Paul Butz, Bill Eddy, Art Cross, Larry Cordle and Dave Gillespie.

Team 3 is composed of Bud Hritz, John Vendlinski, Marcus Luckey, Ken Osborn, Jim Stallings, Dick Plum, Bob Roeser and Dave Crawford.

Bud Hritz and Dr. J. M. Hedges tied for low gross honors with 37. Low net was Larry Priest with 29.

Team 8 is currently leading the league with 90½ points. Teams 1 and 6 are in second with 88½ points.

Bill Camp and Dr. J. M. Hedges won a Blind Partner-Best Ball tournament Saturday with 56. Second was Snap Ankrum - Roger Bennington team with 60.

Qualification of 36 holes for the club championship is under way. The rounds must be completed by Aug. 6.

A tournament for junior members of Pickaway Country Club will be held Aug. 11.

7-4 Win Keeps Lindsey 'Alive' In BR League

Lindsey took a 7-4 decision over General Electric Tuesday that keeps the Bakers' hopes alive in the Babe Ruth League.

Loop leader Kiwanis is 10-3 and has two tilts remaining. Lindsey, 9-4, also has two.

L. M. Butch, 4-9, and General Electric, 3-10, are out of contention.

Don Cordle hurled the win for Lindsey, allowing only three hits, all singles.

Jack Easter pulled the tilt from the fire with a bases-full triple. Easter also doubled, along with Cordle.

Randy Martin and Chuck Zimmerman shared mound chores for General Electric. Martin tagged a single and George Griebel tagged two for General Electric's hit slate.
